Charges Against Fliers On Slaying May Be Dropped

W. J. Mulqueeny of Detroit, Who Piloted Plane in Which L. Koenecke, Ball Player, Was Killed in Spectacular Fight Over Ontario, Expected to Be Freed Along With Companion

Suicide Attempt By Athlete Is Theory

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 18.—The Toronto Evening Telegram said to-day it understood the manslaughter charge against William J. Mulqueeny and Irwin Davis, Detroit airmen held in connection with the airplane killing of Len Koenecke, Brooklyn baseball player, would not be pressed.

The Telegram said it had learned on good authority that Mulqueeny and Davis late to-day and that on their appearance before Magistrate Douglas Keith in the Mimico police court Friday morning they would be discharged.

Officials of the Ontario Attorney-General's office denied, however, any decision had been reached as to the case's disposition.

Mulqueeny and Davis, parachute jumper who rode in the death plane, spent the night in the Don Jail here, facing the charge of manslaughter.

In the cabin of their ship as they flew toward Buffalo from Detroit early Tuesday morning Koenecke was eluded to death with a fire extinguisher. Mulqueeny said the ball player became unmanageable and began to fight, and it was a case of "one or three."

Murphy declared his conviction "Koenecke was deliberately attempting to commit suicide and trying to do it in one grand, glorious finish."

Don J. Murphy, counsel for the airmen, declared he would subpoena Casey Stengel, manager of the Dodgers, to testify at the coroner's inquest to-morrow evening as to Koenecke's mental condition. The attorney said he would go so far as to summon "anybody else who is necessary to prove my clients' fault in self-defence."

ROOF FALLS AND TWO MEN KILLED

Boston, Sept. 18.—At least two men were reported killed and nearly a dozen others injured, some of them critically, as the roof, balconies and portions of the walls of the eighty-year-old Hollis Theatre collapsed while the big structure was being demolished to-day.

FIRE LOSS LESS THAN $1,000,000

Fourth "Wet Year" Keeps Outbreaks to Low Point For B.C.

With only two weeks of what is regarded as the "official" forest fire season left in 1935, forest branch authorities to-day estimated the loss for this year would be at least $200,000 below the average of the last ten years, which is $1,100,000.

The fourth "wet year" in succession is mainly responsible for the cutting down in fire occurrence and in the damage, it was stated.

Last year the total loss ran to $888,000 in forest products and $104,000 in private property, an aggregate of $992,000.

With 1,532 fires recorded up to the end of last week, compared to 1,520 for the corresponding period of last year, it is anticipated the monetary loss for this season will be considerably less than that of 1934, the fire occurrence being barely two-thirds.

However, it was explained, there have been some heavy losses in the coast region, especially on Vancouver Island. The lower mainland area and the island have had 420 fires this year, compared with 303 last year.

Other sections of the province have been extremely fortunate. Kamloops district reports only 189 fires against 467 last year and Nelson 277 against 352.

SWASTIKAS TORN DOWN IN INDIANA

Associated Press
Indianapolis, Sept. 18.—State employees ripped swastikas from the Indiana Capitol Buildings yesterday evening.

Unidentified pranksters had placed on the west windows, in swastika design two feet broad, numerous small stickers bearing the words: "Hell McNutt; farewell to liberty."

Night watchmen scraped them off several hours before Paul W. McNutt, Governor of Indiana, was due at his office in the state house.

King Denounces One-man Reform Plans For Canada

Liberal Programme Is Result of Merging of Views of Many Counsellors and Will Be Carried Out, Leader of Party Declares in Address in Which He Scores Bennett's Course

King Starts On Tour of Prairies

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 18.—Liberal Leader Mackenzie King is on his way to western Canada after broadcasting an appeal to Canadians to put their trust in a united party with a multitude of counsellors and a consistent policy rather than in a programme which depends on the personality and fortunes of a single man.

Speaking over a national radio hookup yesterday evening, Mr. King charged Prime Minister Bennett's programme, as well as that of Hon. R. H. Stevens, was the creation of one man. Should the party of either win the election on October 14 and should the party head be unable to lead the government the programme would fall to the ground.

WIDE ENDORSEMENT
Liberalism, on the contrary, had a programme which was endorsed by all sections of the party and which depended on no single man for its execution. If the Liberal Party were returned to power and he personally were unable to lead it he would simply hand on a great trust which the Liberals had committed to his charge, for the policies of his party were "no meaningless or ephemeral things" concocted for election purposes.

Delegate Goes Home To Talk With Mussolini As Refusal of Offer Hinted

NEW TAXES PUT ON IN ITALY

Cabinet Acts as Probable Rejection of League's Ethiopia Scheme Indicated

Associated Press
Rome, Sept. 18.—The Italian Government to-day indicated its probable rejection of a League of Nations compromise with Ethiopia, reorganized its tax programme to provide for war, and shifted thousands of troops into Libya because of a threatening attitude on the part of tribesmen.

Premier Mussolini presided in person over a cabinet meeting which passed sweeping provisions "designed in part to furnish means for facing the expenses necessary for the defence of East African colonies." A great national loan was approved.

Assignment of troops to Libya, Italy's North African colony which is governed by Gen. Italo Balbo, resulted from what was described as a concentration of armed Senegalese tribesmen on the frontier of Egypt and Libya.

The cabinet approved the issuance of a national loan which is to be written "in the great book of public debts." The bonds will bear 5 per cent interest and will be offered at 95 lire for every 100 lire of nominal capital.

The holders of government 3½ per cent bonds, which now are quoted below 70, may exchange them for the new bonds at 80.

Nominations In Federal Field 666

Toronto, Sept. 18.—For the 243 seats in the House of Commons, 666 candidates so far have been nominated, as follows: Liberals 219, Conservatives 186, C.C.F. 118, Reconstruction 108, others 85.

SOME LEADWAY GIVEN

Alderman Brown, chairman, reminded the aldermen the meeting was open, and suggested the matter be dealt with strictly as a loan without introduction of hearsay discussion.

"I did have a little talk with one of the ministers and he told me we would not be held strictly to the line in so far as those projects outlined by the mayor are concerned," he said.

The report of the finance committee, was read, urging endorsement of the application for the loan and including a statement from D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller and treasurer, reported the mayor as being opposed to the construction of a civic auditorium from the funds.

British Navy Moves Speeded

Nearly 150 Units of Fleets in Mediterranean; Steps Declared "Precautionary"

Associated Press
Gibraltar, Sept. 18.—The second and sixth destroyer flotillas of the British navy, leaving two destroyers behind, sailed from here unexpectedly to-day for an undisclosed destination.

Reports circulated that the great battleship Nelson and the battlecruiser Repulse were expected to arrive here shortly.

The two flotillas arrived yesterday after a speedy run from England in the company of the battlecruisers Hood and Renown and the second cruiser squadron.

AT ANCHOR
These battlecruisers and cruisers still were in the harbor to-day and it was reported they would stay indefinitely.

The two destroyers left behind were the Foxhound and Foresight. The Nelson is the flagship of the British home fleet and the headquarters for the home fleet command.

Baron Aloisi, Called to Rome, Tells French Premier Before Leaving Geneva League's Proposals For Ethiopia Are "Absolutely Unacceptable" to His Country As Basis For Negotiations

Assembly Session May Be Prolonged

Canadian Press from Havas
Geneva, Sept. 18.—Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate to the League of Nations, will hurry to Rome to confer with Premier Mussolini after receiving the verdict of the five-power conciliation committee in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

He was due to receive the report from Chairman Salvador de Madariaga of Spain to-night, and expects to leave to-morrow morning.

At the same time it was stated delegates of the Scandinavian and other powers have started a move to keep the Assembly in session as long as the crisis threatens peace. It is already tacitly understood the Council will not adjourn while the situation remains unsettled.

It was stated in Rome the Italian cabinet would meet Saturday to consider a report on the situation at Geneva.

Canadian Labor Congress Declares For Fewer Foreigners on Ships Operated Or Subsidized By Dominion

Halifax, Sept. 18.—Canadian seamen should man ships operated or subsidized by the Canadian Government, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in annual convention here, declared by resolution to-day.

Under present conditions, the resolution said, government-owned ships were employing foreign labor. Reference was made to the craft in the Canada-West Indies trade—the Canadian National steamships. They should employ Canadian labor "exclusively," it was declared.

B.C. DELEGATE SPEAKS
The principle of Canadian seamen for Canadian ships was supported strongly by Delegate McInnes of Vancouver, but he thought the resolution should be even broader in scope, to include ships traveling between Canada and the Orient. It stressed chiefly the coastwise trade.

Japanese competition on the west coast was depriving many Canadians of work, said Mr. McInnes. He scored politicians for "hypocrisy" in this respect.

"I am referring particularly to Hon. H. H. Stevens," he asserted. He was called to order sharply by President P. M. Draper and the resolution went to a vote.

Bennett In Calgary To-day

Premier Visits City in Which He Is Candidate For Commons

Canadian Press
Calgary, Sept. 18.—Prime Minister Bennett came back to-day to the city he adopted as his home thirty-five years ago and to the people who sent him to Parliament. The short walk from the railway station to his hotel took up the first hour of his visit to Calgary, which he spent shaking hands with old friends and supporters.

At noon Mr. Bennett addressed a joint meeting of Calgary service clubs, and the afternoon was spent mainly with Conservative Party workers in executive sessions. He presented scholarships which he gives annually to students of Alberta high schools, and distributed prizes and awards to members of the St. John Ambulance Association.

To-morrow evening Mr. Bennett will address a mass meeting here and Friday morning he will leave for Vancouver, being scheduled to speak in Victoria Saturday evening.

Toronto Star and Medalist in Canadian Women's Close Golf Championship Defeats Alice Mountfield, Edmonton, in First Round at Colwood; Mrs. Sweeney Advances

Mrs. E. H. Gooderham, Toronto, yesterday's Medalist, defeated Alice Mountfield, Edmonton, 5 and 4, in the first round of match play for the Canadian Women's close golf championship at the Colwood Golf Club to-day.

Although her medal card was considerably higher than the 81 she turned in for the qualifying round, Mrs. Gooderham out-steered her Alberta opponent on the greens, losing only two holes of the fourteen played, the first and fourth. She won the third, and sixth and took the eighth and ninth to make the turn 2 up.

A par five gave her the tenth and after halving the next two, the Toronto shotmaker won the last two when Miss Mountfield got into difficulties on the fairways taking a seven on the par four thirteenth and six on the fourteenth, one stroke over.

New Zealand Supports League

If Organization Collapses
Guarantees of Peace Will Disappear, Says Premier
G. W. Forbes

Canadian Press Cable via Reuters.
Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 18.—New Zealand's loyalty to the League of Nations in the present grave situation was stressed by Prime Minister G. W. Forbes to-day at a deputation from the New Zealand Methodist Church.

The churchmen declared they would refuse to participate in any war and would help to fight conscription if it came.

When a nation "went mad," something should be done to resist that nation, the Prime Minister said. New Zealand would join other League powers to prevent an attack being made, for if the League collapsed, it would be most difficult to guarantee peace for any length of time.

Canadian Press Cable via Reuters.
Sydney, Australia, Sept. 18.—An appeal to the Australian people to "reset what appears to be an imminent tragedy" was issued by J. T. Lang, leader of the extremist Labor opposition faction here.

He described the League of Nations as an organization dominated by Britain, France and Russia, and said the only way to prevent Italy obtaining war supplies would be to sink her ships, and that would be an act of war.

Australia should stand off so as to be able to protect her interests in the Pacific, as other nations were doing, he added.

TRUSTEES FOR BOARD SYSTEM

B.C. Association Declares
For Continued Elective
Method For Schools

Canadian Press.
Harrison Hot Springs, B.C., Sept. 18.—A resolution which would have barred from free education elementary school pupils who failed a second time to pass the qualifying examination for entrance to high school, was overwhelmingly defeated by the British Columbia School Trustees' Association yesterday.

"Why ruin a boy's future by a silly examination?" asked H. N. MacCormick, superintendent of Vancouver city schools.

Another resolution defeated was one suggesting that failure to pass any grade in high school should entail cessation of academic education at public expense, except where failure is due to circumstances beyond the pupil's control.

The delegates reaffirmed their attitude towards the H. B. King school finances report by passing the following resolution:

"That any curtailment of the present system of administration of education by elective boards would be detrimental to the system and that administration by persons appointed by the government of the day would be a retrograde step; and that the practice of replacing school boards by official trustees should be limited to cases where such a course is absolutely necessary in the interests of education."

The Association's incoming executive is charged with the responsibility of watching developments on the King report, and school boards and branch associations are urged to keep in touch with it and present their considered reaction to such points of the report as they consider applicable to their areas.

"The fact that Major King recommends abolition of school boards suggests he has not given careful consideration to other parts of his report," said P. E. George of Victoria.

Bennett Is Heard on Trade

Premier Tells Lethbridge Audience Great Offer Made to United States

Lethbridge, Alta., Sept. 18.—Canada had recently placed before the United States the greatest offer in history as a basis for negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement, Premier R. B. Bennett said in an address at a election campaign meeting here yesterday evening.

Negotiations could not be well carried on during an election and the Prime Minister asked the people to give him a mandate to conclude the deal.

He had heard Liberal Leader Mackenzie King in a broadcast address earlier in the evening and had gathered that Mr. King did not approve of Conservative bargaining methods.

"I wondered, after listening to that (Mr. King's) speech, if Canada had been a part of this world in the past five years," said Mr. Bennett. "It would appear that Canada had no share in the world depression."

Canada had been a part of the world depression and had suffered more perhaps than most other countries because of the great areas and small population. But he asked his listeners to understand that Canada had come through better than most other countries.

OTTAWA AGREEMENTS
Describing the chain of events which led up to the Ottawa trade agreements, Mr. Bennett said he would be "perfectly content to leave my place in history" to the negotiation of those agreements. "In ordinary times the government that negotiated such agreements would remain in office as long as it liked."

Mr. Bennett criticized Opposition speakers who told audiences Canada had lost markets under the Conservatives.

Mr. Bennett described the moves his government had made as soon as elected to secure an increase in exports as compared with imports. "I do not believe in tariffs," he said, "except as an instrument of government, and it was so that we used it to save this country from bankruptcy."

WHEAT QUESTION
Efforts of the government to secure a better condition for the wheat industry had resulted in John I. McFarland and himself being called "gamblers and speculators," said Mr. Bennett.

His work for the wheat growers had broken Mr. McFarland's health. "But if we had succumbed, if we had been afraid of criticism, we would not be in the position we are now."

Mr. Bennett's speech was delivered at a meeting held in the interests of the Conservative candidate in Lethbridge, Brig.-Gen. J. S. Stewart.

STEVENS TO-DAY QUEBEC VISITOR

Quebec, Sept. 18.—Traditionally steeped in politics, old Quebec to-day was the scene of the proposals of the country's latest political entry, the Reconstruction Party, from its leader, Hon. H. H. Stevens.

Having completed his whirlwind tour of the Maritime Provinces, Mr. Stevens arrived here yesterday evening from Campbellton, N.B., by way of his son, Rev. Francis H. Stevens, who will support his father at a party meeting in the arena here this evening.

New Zealanders Not Creditors

Premier Forbes Says Douglas Theories Not Gaining
There

Canadian Press Via Reuters.
Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 18.—A formal denial was issued by Prime Minister G. W. Forbes to-day of reports recently to the effect a race is in progress between the Province of Alberta and New Zealand to "see which is first to adopt the Douglas credit system."

The Douglas credit theory, said the Prime Minister, is supported by only a very small number in New Zealand, "whose people are much too sensible to be carried away by such theories that have been repudiated by all economists throughout the world."

The reports in any effect confused the Douglas credit system with the social credit tenets of Alberta's new government under Premier William Aberhart. Major Douglas, however, is expected to sail for Alberta shortly to resume his position as an adviser to the administration.

Young People's Societies

OBYPA

The Obypa opened its fourth season on Monday evening in the Oak Bay United schoolroom, with the first meeting taking the form of a social. A collegiate atmosphere prevailed, appropriate decorations being used, with the executive as "professors," welcoming old and new members. An enjoyable evening was spent in games and music after which refreshments were served.

At the close of the meeting everyone was presented with a "diploma" entitling him to all future meetings of the Obypa.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

Metropolitan Young People's Society met in the schoolrooms of the Metropolitan United Church on Monday evening.

Worship service was taken by Miss Hazel McPhee. Rev. J. H. A. West, Douglas Ritchie and Bert Simpson gave interesting accounts of their holidays spent at Semahmoo Bay Young People's Leadership Training Camp, teaching the group camp songs and stunts.

The conclusion of the evening was spent in games with Miss Doris Smith in charge.

Next Monday evening the young people will be entertained by a guest speaker.

FIRST UNITED Y.P.S.

The winter activities of the First United Church Young People's Society was opened yesterday evening with a lantern lecture by Rev. T. H. Lonsdale, entitled "A Half an Hour in Paradise Valley." Many of the world-renowned beauty spots of the country around Banff were shown with lovely colored settings.

These fine illustrations gained the well-merited appreciation of the gathering.

The second portion of the evening's entertainment was under the able management of Ken MacDonald and Doug Balfour, entertainment committee, which included various games. Miss Eleanor Baran won the first prize in the "autographs."

Mr. and Mrs. B. Horton were introduced into the society and were made welcome by President E. Jones. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was brought to close with a sing-song led by William Orville Findlay and accompanied by Miss Winnie Robb on the piano.

St. John's A.Y.F.A.—Monday night marked the first business meeting of the current season. Canon Chadwick, patron of the branch, officiated at the installation of officers. Those installed as officers were: President, John Hooper; vice-president, Alan Paver; secretary, Sylvia Schofield; treasurer, Jim White; corresponding secretary, Iris Smith; publicity secretary, Stan Laver.

After the installation, John Hooper took the chair and opened the business for the coming season. Noreen

Canadian Press Cable via Reuters

Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 18.—Provision of more than $20,000,000 for public works, restoration of the cuts in salaries, increased pensions, a comprehensive housing scheme and taxation reduction were features of the budget introduced in the House of Representatives yesterday by Finance Minister J. G. Coates.

The finance minister emphasized fundamental economic problems had been solved and New Zealand had emerged from the depression without accumulated debts.

Recent arrangements which removed uncertainty in regard to meat exports, along with rising prices for wool and dairy produce, ensured good prospects for the coming season.

Fifteen Pastors Are Candidates

Clergyman Run For Commons in B.C., Prairie Provinces, Ontario and Nova Scotia

Canadian Press.
Toronto, Sept. 18.—Clergymen are taking a more active part in the political life of the nation, nominations for the Dominion general election on October 14 indicate.

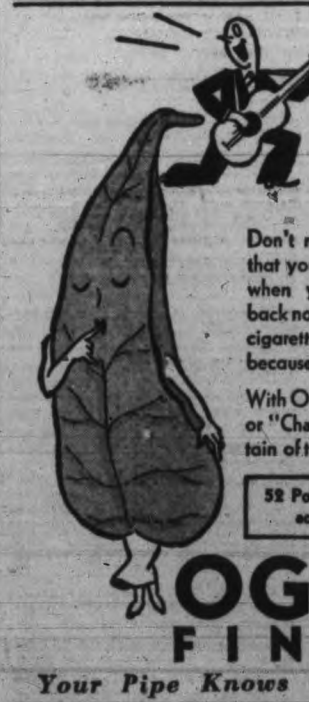

Fifteen ministers are among the more than 600 candidates already nominated. There were none contesting seats in the four general elections between 1921 and 1926.

Eleven of the fifteen are members of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, three are candidates of the Reconstruction Party and the other is a Liberal—Rev. Dan McIvor, running in Port William.

Nominations of pastors have been made in the four western provinces and in Nova Scotia and Ontario, the latter province having the largest number with five.

Next in line in Saskatchewan with four, all C.C.F. candidates. Two ministers have been nominated in British Columbia, two in Nova Scotia and one each in Alberta and Manitoba. Several denominations are represented. None is Roman Catholic.

The line-up of ministers nominated to date:
British Columbia—Two.
New Westminster—Rev. E. H. Baker, C.C.F.
Yale—Rev. E. W. Mackie, C.C.F.
Alberta—One.
Calgary West—Rev. H. H. Horricks, C.C.F.
Manitoba—One.

THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG

IT WAS LEFT FOR THE WELL-KNOWN Conservative newspaper, The Toronto Telegram, to give away the secrets of the Conservative Board of Strategy at Ottawa, by explaining that an order went forth to rub out the words "Vote Bennett" on the huge billboards which are decorating the country from coast to coast and substitute them with "Vote Conservative" and "Stand by Canada." Our morning contemporary, however, apparently has not been advised, for on its front page yesterday it exhorts Victoria voters to "Stand by Canada—Vote Bennett." We quote from The Toronto Telegram:

"Stand by Canada and Vote Conservative," will be the election slogan on the large signboards which hitherto have read: "Stand by Canada and Vote Bennett."

Rude references by opponents to the slogan appearing on signs, painted and printed, throughout the country led to a meeting of the Conservative "Board of Strategy" at Ottawa, with the result that the change was ordered.

"What is behind all this?" asks The Toronto Globe. "Has there been a further revolt in the party? Are there other Stevens, not yet leaders, working in the background? Evidently some one has been hauled over the coals. Perhaps the well-known modesty of the Prime Minister suggested the change—a belated recognition that there is a Conservative party; even a cabinet."

The Toronto Daily Star cites the confusion caused in the Tory camp: "Conservative campaign managers have thrown Toronto into a mild fever of speculation by sending out painters around the city to rub out their party chieftain's name in the big 'Vote Bennett' billboards and to substitute the phrase 'Vote Conservative.' Puzzling alike to the rank and file of the Conservatives as well as the amused observers of opposition parties, the latest surprise in the present campaign is giving rise to plenty of satirical comment at the expense of Conservative strategists."

The Times suggests to the voters of Victoria and Vancouver Island that they vote Liberal for the simple reason that they will be standing by Canada—the Canada which the government of Mr. Mackenzie King made more prosperous than it had ever been before.

SIMPLE REFORM MEANS WIDE CHANGE

FEW REFORMS IN THIS MODERN world can stand by themselves. Nearly all of them are interlocked with the social structure as a whole, and if you undertake to set one minor matter right you are apt to find yourself committed to making a sweeping change in the entire set-up.

For example: Dr. David Snedden, Professor of Education at Teachers' College, Columbia University, discussed the education of small children before a summer school class in New York the other night.

His point was that sending a child to school or kindergarten at too early an age puts the child in an unnatural environment and is apt to do more harm than good. It would be preferable, he said, to keep a child at home until it is nine or ten years old.

Then he went on to describe what he conceived as the ideal "school" for a child. There should be a normal household, he said, with a roomy backyard, flanked by similar yards in which the child and his playmates could come together.

All of this, he added, should be under "the sympathetic oversight of mothers who are not gainfully employed but are free to give their entire time to the vocation of home-making, including its most important division of child rearing."

Now all of this sounds very nice indeed, and there will be few to disagree with the good sense of the prescription. But try, just for a moment, to imagine the sweeping changes that would have to be made in our social habits to provide this setting for the average child.

First we must have a comfortable house with a roomy yard. This, at one fell swoop, does away with those massed city blocks of apartment houses, "duplexes" and little cubby-hole dwellings with ten-by-seven backyards. It would mean rebuilding a good half of every city, and raising the economic status of a sizeable percentage of our entire population—for some millions of people fail to provide roomy backyards for their children for the simple reason that they can not afford it.

Then there is the demand that the mother be a full-time housewife, with no outside job to take up her time; and this, in turn, would call for another revolution. We have many women gainfully employed in trade and industry, a great many of them mothers; and most of them work not because they like to but because they have to, to keep the family going.

If we are to fill this prescription, the annual income of innumerable families will have to be boosted—and thousands of men will have to learn how to become milliners, beauty shop operators, typists and heaven knows what else.

All of this is just a sample of the way things interlock in this modern world. Here we have an educator telling what we ought to give our children. To do it we would have to have an entirely different kind of society.

CANADA AND WAR

ANYONE WHO DOUBTS THAT A SELF-governing Dominion in the British Empire enjoys self-government in fact as well as in name need only read the recent statement by the Prime Minister of Canada concerning the Dominion's foreign policy.

Premier Bennett gave Canadians a flat promise that Canada will get into no foreign war that is not made necessary by a defence of Canada's own immediate interests. Canada will defend Canadian rights, but it will "not be involved in any foreign war where the rights of Canadians are not involved." All this, read against the background of a possible war in Europe, is exceedingly interesting. Canadians are proud of their place in the British Empire—but they are masters of their own destiny.

WHAT IS THE SOLUTION?

THE REAL PROBLEM OF TO-DAY IS neither the government debt nor the unbalanced budget. It is not the danger of war or the business depression, the threat of Fascism or the menace of Communism. It is simply that old, tragic, and utterly baffling thing, unemployment. This is the comment of a well-known United States publicist.

"We have taken it for granted ever since 1929," he goes on to say, "that a return to normal business productivity would automatically end unemployment. But it is beginning to become evident now that this was too optimistic. Unemployment is revealing itself as a continuing affair, something that exists above and beyond the depression and that will not be dispelled by a simple return to good times in trade."

Rodney Dutcher recently pointed out in a dispatch from Washington that a return to normal business activity to-day would leave the United States with from six to eight million men who could not get jobs. Under present conditions, he argues, there is no prospect that our neighbor can ever abolish unemployment.

1930 AND 1935

MR. MACKENZIE KING STICKS TO HIS policy of free trade, sound social reform—not fantastic promises of reform which mean nothing—state control of currency and credit, restoration of responsible government, obviously to replace government by "blank cheque," a national commission to deal with unemployment, and other progressive policies.

In this stand he will be supported by the great majority of the Canadian people. This is only natural. The present record has been all the other way. In Brantford, in 1930, the Canadian people were told by Mr. Bennett: "This is a new country and we should not have any unemployment, given the right kind of government." On that same occasion, Mr. Bennett appealed for the support of the Canadian people in order that "we may afford a chance to Canadians to live in Canada, that this country may be a land of homes, not mere abiding places, and more, a country that is not an annex, for economic vassalage is next to actual slavery." Comment on this part of his speech would be superfluous.

When Mr. Bennett assumed office as Prime Minister of this country, there were 117,000 Canadians out of gainful employment. The Dominion's trade was worth more than two and one-half billions of dollars. To-day, there are approximately 700,000 Canadians on the dole—the form of support for our people at which Mr. Bennett shuddered in the election campaign of 1930, and which he declared with righteous indignation would never come to pass in Canada—and our trade is considerably less than half of what it was worth in 1930.

Mr. King naturally does not promise to work miracles; the day of miracles has passed. What he does promise to do, however, is to give the people of this great and promising Dominion a better chance to exist in more comfort than they have experienced in the last five years. Mackenzie King stands for liberalism in every aspect. That is why his party should be returned to office on October 14.

Just Folks

DESCRIPTION OF ME

Ask Nellie if you want to know
The sort of man I am.
She'll tell you that my neckties show
The stains of sauce and jam.
She'll tell you that I always drop
My clothing on the floor,
And that I'm never known to stop
To close a closet door.

She'll tell you that I always wear
The sloppiest kind of hats,
And that I've never owned a pair
Of white pearl-button spats.
She'll tell you that I cannot sing
Or strike a tune by chance,
And that I am an awkward thing
That cannot learn to dance.

She'll tell you that she hopes in vain
I'll hang my coats on pegs.
That always, dining on a train,
I order ham and eggs;
That I will solemnly regard,
As seeking something new,
The dishes on a menu card,
Then order Irish stew.

She'll add, although right well I know,
Just what desert he'll take.
He loves to read the list below
From lemon ice to cake.
He'll let the waiters nod and bow,
As if a king were he.
Then say: "If you're vice pudding now,
Just bring it in to me!"

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

GOING BAREFOOT
The St. Catherine's Standard

A Kansas Congressman, chided for playing golf barefooted, retorted that he wore more clothes than some of those who go to bathing beaches. True enough, but a man shouldn't need an argument if he hankers to go barefoot now and then.

"BLASTING"
Business Week

The Pacific Coast reports a monthly sales loss of 7,000,000 feet of British Columbia lumber through the Canadian-Japanese tariff war. Business has gone to the United States and 1,500 Canadians in the woods and mills go on the unemployed lists.

GOLDEN RULE
The Windsor Star

Something new in the way of resolutions has come from the California Synod of the Presbyterian Church. The ministers and laymen ask everyone on the highways to observe "the courtesy and grace which becomes Christians." If that is done, the California Presbyterians think that accidents will be reduced substantially. By Christian motoring, the drivers would simply be treating others as they would have others treat them.

Loose Ends

The campaign turns out a flop—being too thoughtful and vigorous—there is romance everywhere these days—We try to give something for nothing—and Smoky makes himself known.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

FLOP

SPEAKING with a brutal frankness, which all right-minded people will reprobate and deplore, I think this political campaign in Canada is a flop.

I do not refer to the policies of any party which, heaven knows, are far above my poor head. I mean the campaign itself as a campaign, as a human combat, as a struggle between men, as a living thing. There isn't any combat and struggle, there isn't any life, there isn't anything to make you cheer or even to make you mad.

This is a great mistake. You may not want to cheer in a campaign, but at least you feel, after paying the admission fee, that somebody ought to make you mad. That, surely, is the least the politicians can do for you. But in this campaign nobody gets mad. Mr. Bennett isn't mad; rather the reverberating voice of piety and the Christian virtues. Mr. King doesn't get mad because he doesn't have to, carrying the election, as he does, in his vest pocket. Mr. Woods doesn't get mad because he doesn't know how to, being far too civilized. Mr. Stevens is the only one who seems to get mad and he has been mad so often and so long in a purely professional fashion that one has ceased to take much notice of him.

The trouble is that our politics are getting too grown-up and sophisticated. They are grappling with the real economic problems of the time, and that is always as dull as a Communist picnic. And while the politicians labor and grapple, while they study up new theories of economics and try to wrap their minds around Social Credit and central banking—few with any real vision. Mr. King, for example, doesn't get mad because he doesn't care. The public is tired of it all and doesn't believe anything anyway.

This seems to prove what I have long contended in these premises—that the human animal really was not intended for higher economics and the larger problems of civilization. He was intended for a simpler life, for a primitive society such as we used to have before the war, for a political system that you could get your teeth into and cheer or get mad according to whether you were a Grit or a Tory.

That was what kept democracy alive—the cheers and the anger, the human emotions of combat, the spectacle of a Grit punching a Tory in the nose, or vice versa. Our democratic system is not endangered by its blunders. It is endangered by the utter boredom of the electorate. They don't get any real fun out of it any more. It is becoming, on account of our economic progress, a deadly earnest business, a profound science. Who is interested in a deadly earnest business? Who wants to master a profound science? Anybody would prefer to see a Grit hit a Tory on the nose, or vice versa. If we don't look out, we shall hand our government over to a dictator because we are bored to death with it and would rather go to the movies.

ROMANCE

SURELY the most abused word in the English language these days is "romance." Everything that involves the two human sexes is currently known as romance, whether it be legal, illegal, interesting or dull, white or black. When a movie star who has had five husbands acquires a fifth and is certain to acquire a sixth before the year is out, it is romance in the headlines, whereas, in fact, it is simple polygamy. When two flabby, middle-aged people decide to live together for purposes of convenience and finance, in this simple domestic arrangement becomes a romance in the newspapers, though it is no more romantic than any other domestic arrangement, than the kitchen sink, for example.

All this, it seems to me, I have said

WARNING!

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 600 words. Henceforth it positively will not print communications which exceed that length.

These letters must be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers.

Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed.

A DISCLAIMER

To the Editor:—The text of "Fair Play" letter in The Times of Friday, September 13, is that the disturbances that occurred at the Liberal rally, held in the Royal Victoria Theatre, at which Premier Hespura of Ontario was the guest speaker, were deliberately organized by a political party that is opposed to the present economic system.

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation (C.C.F.) is the only party in the local field opposed to the present system, and therefore obviously the target at which "Fair Play" absolutely unsubstantiated charge is aimed.

While not wishing to enter into any controversy with any supporter or supporters of opposing parties, the Victoria C.C.F. federal campaign committee wishes to make clear to the electors of Victoria that the C.C.F. intends to conduct its campaign for the election of its candidate, Professor J. King Gordon, by decent and honorable methods.

It is no party to, and cannot and will not be held responsible for, any political meetings.

YOUTH AND WORK

To the Editor:—We hear plenty about the tragedy of worthless youth to-day. There is another side to this picture.

Having supported myself by hard work (from seventeen) through a delicate youth to retirement at fifty on a small income, all my sympathies were with the youth of to-day, and I started providing employment at top pay (35c an hour), on simple jobs—wood sawing, kindling chopping, beach wood gathering, elementary carpentry, rough outside painting, errands, etc.

I have tried many samples of the results of our expensive educational system, supposed to fit children for life in the land they belong to, and have through several years found only one worth helping: only one competent to do what I, I, delicate and crippled and without their background, managed successfully. Most of the so-called work done has had to be redone by myself. These children, ages sixteen to twenty-two, are irresponsible, lazy, if not proud, for their own achievements, and seem devoid of any sense of honor or self-respect.

Those who have "passed" four years manual training seem to have learned two things—to dawdle over time work and scamp contract work. I, crippled, gave one side of a shack a first coat of paint and, tired, got a trained youth for the other. He took three times as long as I had and produced patchy, dirty results, covering grass, steps, fence and overall I lent him, with wasted good paint, whereas I had wasted none. I employed another youth, eighteen, to put some four-inch spikes into 2x4s for me, underneath the shack, found it wobbly, crawled under and found each nail two inches into the wood, crooked and then hammered over. Another sawed through a six-inch log, once only, in twenty-five minutes. Two more, engaged to dig up the kitchen garden, looked (chewing) at it, said "get that ploughed first," and scrooled off. Another asked to empty the orange ash can into the garbage can, put it on a flower bed. I had one boy who did an hour's work in fifty-five minutes, was civil, obliging, cheery, didn't chew, and did look washed. I gave him two hours' extra pay at the end of the day and recommended him to friends whose experience had been like mine. That boy has not been one day without work since. These are all Oak Bay boys.

EMPLOYER.

Tower. A romantic place to dine, the visitors say. They seem to think Londoners drop into such famous buildings every few days. But it is stated that not half the P.L.A. employees have ever been in the Tower, although they pass it every day of their lives.

FAMOUS LANDMARKS

The best way to see the river and the docks and the bridges is from the deck of one of the fine steamers operated by the P.L.A. You start off from Tower Bridge, opposite is Bermondsey, famous in days long gone for its Benedictine Abbey and later for its tanneries.

The Surrey Commercial docks are where many of the cargo ships discharge and load their freight. The St. Katherine Dock was opened in 1828, and next to this dock come the London Docks, opened in 1808.

Everyone loves the gruesome, so the Execution Dock proves a highlight of the river cruise. A passage, in the old days, from Wapping High Street was known as Execution Dock, as it was there that pirates were hanged in chains at low water for three tides. It was there that history says the celebrated Capt. Kidd was hanged.

Soon the ship passes over the original Thames tunnel, which was opened in 1843, and which was then regarded as one of the wonders of the world. Then comes Rotherhithe, where, in the reign of Edward III a great fleet was prepared under Edward the Black Prince for invasion of France. Limehouse, where formerly opium dens flourished, can also be seen, and then comes Deptford. It was there that Queen Elizabeth knighted Sir Francis Drake aboard the Golden Hind.

Greenwich Observatory can plainly be seen from the river. It was built in 1675 during the reign of Charles II. If you are there at 1 o'clock any afternoon you will see the time ball descend.

HANGMAN'S WOOD

The training ship Worcester is moored off Greenwich. She was originally steam, but was converted to sail. On the shore behind the Worcester is a large house known as Ingress Abbey, which was constructed of stone of the original London Bridge. Although you can't see them, the guide tells you that Hangman's Wood, some near, and explains the name. It is a very remarkable place known as "Dene Holes." They are said to have been constructed as places of refuge from Danish pirates.

To get into the Victoria and Albert docks and the King George V dock the ships must enter through a lock. It takes a little time and the boats must wait, of course, for the water to rise and fall. In these docks are ships from every port. The inevitable Blue Funnel ship is there. Was there ever a port in any part of the world where a traveler could not see a ship of this line? The Britannic, of the White Star Line, in service to New York also goes right in to the King George V dock.

The Port of London Authority is most anxious to secure as much of Canada's export trade to England as possible. With this idea in mind the P.L.A. has a large exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and Mr. Willey is there in connection with it. He arrived in Montreal last week by the St. Duchesne of Bedford.

THE PREMIER PORT

"Canada wants to send more of her products and manufactures to Great Britain," Mr. Willey says. "Yet many Canadians do not at present realize that London is Great Britain's premier port, and serves Great Britain's greatest market. London provides the wealthiest and largest market for Canadian trade; the Port of London is the natural obvious gateway to that market."

There are facilities at the Port of London for every commodity that Canada exports. Ships from Victoria and Vancouver discharge great lumber cargoes at the Surrey Commercial Docks, where is located the centre of the London and provincial softwood trade. Butter and cheese can also be stored there as well as beans and

Ronald Colman Was Blown To Success

War Injuries Made Colman Turn Actor; Won First Chance in London After He Was Disabled by Shell Blast

In the sixth of a series of life stories written by cinema stars for The Times during the vacation of Dan Thomas, The Times Hollywood correspondent, Ronald Colman tells how he rose to film fame.

BY

Ronald Colman

Any life story—yours or mine—is a gesture, more or less a futility. It is a narrative of dates and people and events which may interest some and bore others to extinction.

A good writer can make dull things sound interesting by the expert usage of words. That is his business. It isn't mine. I am no writer, so I shall set down the important events of my life as simply and as unglamorously as they shaped themselves.

I presume that most actors cultivate the impression that they were born for the stage. There is no such illusion here.

My father's name was Charles Colman, a silk importer of modest circumstances, and there is no proof that there ever was an actor in the family before my time. My mother's maiden name was Marjorie Fraser, and she bore me on February 9, 1891. The birthplace was Richmond, Surrey, England.

My father had high hopes for me. He wanted to see me in Oxford, so I was sent to Hadley school, in Littlehampton, en route to a gentleman's station. While at Hadley I became interested in amateur theatricals and played several juvenile roles. I convinced to get a member of Sir George Alexander's company to look me over. He did, and looked right over me.

OXFORD HOPES VANISH

It was only a few weeks later that my father died and I was compelled, at sixteen, to abandon hopes for Oxford and go to work. I went to London as office boy for the British Steamship Company, at $2.50 a week. Five years later I had advanced to a stool before an old black desk and the somewhat magnificent salary of $12.

When the war broke out I left my job and joined the London Scottish Regiment, which left almost immediately for France as a unit of "The First Hundred Thousand."—Kitchener's famous "Contemptibles." I saw action at Ypres, then at Messines, where an exploding shell caused me to stumble, fracturing an ankle. This upturned injury led to my medical discharge and I was a free man, looking for work in the summer of 1916.

My thoughts turned first to the theatre, and I was rather lucky. My first professional appearance was as the black-faced herald boy in the Tagore sketch, "The Maharajah of Arakan," at the Coliseum. All I did was toot a horn.

Strangely enough, this false start led to a meeting with Miss Gladys Cooper and a bit in "The Mischief Maker."

GETS LEADING ROLE

I was on the stage at last, with the leading role in Brieux's "Damaged Goods." It ran for seven months until the air raids over London shut it down.

During this run George Dewhurst, one of the pioneers of the British cinema, induced me to make a two-reel comedy, my introduction to motion pictures.

But I was not particularly successful, so I abandoned picture making and appeared in several stage plays.

RONALD COLMAN

During this period I was married to Thelma Raye.

Unable to find continuous work in 1920, I took second-class passage to New York, reaching there with $37. I lived for three weeks on soup and rice pudding while I sought a job, and finally got it in "The Dauntless Three."

The next job was in the out-of-town production of "The Green Goddess," but I was dropped when it reached Broadway. Then I did "The Night Cap," "The Silver Fox," and toured the west in "East Is West," with Fay Bainter as star.

GETS REAL CHANCE

When in Los Angeles I founded the movie studios, appealed to agents and sought the attention of producers and directors without success. I returned to New York, badly disappointed, but my chance was to come. During the fall of 1923 I was appearing with Ruth Chatterton and Henry Miller in "La Tendresse," Henry King the director, and Lillian Gish attended one of the performances and promptly the next day knocked at my dressing-room door.

They were going to Italy to make "The White Sister" and would I go as Miss Gish's leading man? I would! Following "The White Sister," we went to Florence to make "Romola." Then I received a cable from Samuel Goldwyn, offering me a long-term contract and the leading role opposite May McAvoy in "Tarnish." I accepted.

TURNING POINT OF CAREER

"The Dark Angel," completed in October, 1925, was my first film with Vilma Banky and I consider it the turning-point of my life. It established me as none of my other pictures had and led to such really fine silent plays as "Stella Dallas" and "Beau Geste." I did five more with Miss Banky until our partnership was dissolved in 1928.

I made a brief visit to England and returned to find that Mr. Goldwyn had nominated Lily Damita as my new leading lady. We made "The Rescue."

My first talking picture was "Bulldog Drummond." Then came "Condemned," "Raffles," "Devil to Pay," "The Holy Garden" and "Arrow-smith," which I feel is the best picture I ever made. "Cynara" and "The Masquerader" and I called a halt to film activity.

AT LAST SHAVES MUSTACHE

So I got aboard a ship and spent some time aboard. On my return I became associated with Joseph M. Schenk, for whom I had worked before, and Darryl F. Zanuck, in Twentieth Century Pictures, the newest major producing company. My first picture was "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" and this was something of a success.

It was after this picture that Mrs. Colman and I were divorced. I have no thought of another marriage.

My next vehicle for Twentieth Century was "Clive of India," in which I changed my character and shaved my mustache for the first time in my film career. The merging of the Twentieth Century Company with the Fox Film studios will now shift my activities to the vast Westwood plant. The first picture assigned me is "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" and we are to start that this month.

Next: Lily Pons.

SPECIAL STONE FOR CATHEDRAL

A special decorative stone presented to Christ Church Cathedral, represented by Major F. V. Longstaff in England last June, will be received by the local cathedral soon. It was loaned recently from those in charge of arrangements for its transportation.

The stone, surrounded by symbols of the British Empire and surmounted by a lion, was presented at a special Empire service at Canterbury Cathedral to the representatives of the different Empire Cathedrals represented at the gathering.

The cross on the stone coming here is a replica of that designed by Sir Herbert Baker on the south wall of St. Martin's chapel in Canterbury Cathedral, the Cross of Sacrifice and service with the Canterbury cross, dating from the eighth century, and discovered about seventy years ago beneath one of the city streets.

Cambridge, Eng., Sept. 18 (Canadian Press)—Dr. Peter Giles, internationally-known philologist, died here today, aged seventy-six years. He was a former vice-chancellor of Cambridge University.

PEOPLE WANT TO LIVE HERE

Publicity Bureau Receives Many Requests for Information
 Summer tourist travel may be closing, but demands of Victoria literature still continued.
 Travel bureaus in Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York, Boston, Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and other cities are writing to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau for literature describing the city and island.
 Many correspondents state that demands for Victoria and Island folders are the best known communities on the North American Continent.
 They say that the handsome increase in Victoria's tourist business this year is very favorably commented on by business executives in all parts of Canada and America, many of these stating that Victoria is to be congratulated in possessing such an exceptionally fine publicity bureau.

 As a direct result of the past tourist season the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau is now receiving a large number of inquiries from people, chiefly in California and the middle west, and from other parts of the continent and also Great Britain, asking for information on settling here. The majority of these correspondents are in receipt of fixed incomes and say that their attention has been drawn to Victoria through reports from friends who have visited here on their holidays.
 Unless the unforeseen happens, it would appear as if Victoria during the next twelve months will enjoy a very decided revival in the number of people who will come here to live.
 It would appear from a glance at a number of letters from some of the prospective settlers, that Victoria is recognized as a most attractive home city for people in all parts of Canada who are retiring on pensions, large or small, including bank managers, municipal officials, government officials and railway employees.
Would Stave Off Reversions
Burnaby Coming to Discuss Tax Sale Situation With Government
 With reversion of some 600 properties for non-payment of taxes threatened in Burnaby municipality, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipal Affairs, prepared yesterday to seek a solution at a conference with officials of the municipality.

 The Burnaby group, due here tomorrow morning to discuss the situation with the municipal department. The tax sale in Burnaby, scheduled to begin yesterday, will be postponed from day to day for two weeks, it was announced. In the meantime a remedy will be sought.
 The trouble arose because many of those on the relief rolls refused to work for their relief allowances and, as a consequence, were not permitted to work out their taxes. Since others who had conformed with the relief requirements have worked to pay their tax bills, the remainder are claiming discrimination against them.
Many Foreigners Still in Ethiopia
 Addis Ababa, Sept. 18.—Despite increasing danger of war, most foreigners remained in Ethiopia to-day, only a few wives and children of missionaries having departed.
 Foreigners who have not yet evacuated Ethiopia include eighty-six British missionaries scattered in twenty-two towns and villages, fifty United States citizens, twelve Belgians and 104 Germans.
 Only fifteen Italians have left Addis Ababa and thirty-eight non-official Italians were still in the interior.
 Emperor Haile Selassie announced he would give a banquet at the Imperial Palace Thursday in honor of correspondents and cameramen, nearly 100 of whom are now here.

MAKING PLANS FOR FESTIVAL

B.C. Regional Drama Festival in Vancouver January 26 to February 1
 The British Columbia Regional Drama Festival of the 1936 Dominion Drama Festival will be held in Vancouver from January 26 to February 1, according to word from Ottawa received by Captain T. L. Thorpe-Douglas, chairman of the Victoria and Island Eliminations Committee.
 Definite information as to whether the regional adjudicator will come to Victoria to adjudicate here upon the three plays selected from the eliminations is not yet known.
 At the last meeting of the 1935 eliminations committee, held in June, a request was formulated to be sent to the Dominion Festival Committee in Ottawa that if possible, instead of the three plays sent forward from the eliminations going to Vancouver, the regional adjudicator come to Victoria for one night, adjudicating these plays here, as part of the Regional Festival, in the same manner as the plays from the interior were adjudicated at Nelson last year. If this plan was found unworkable, the chairman was requested to ask the regional committee in Vancouver to place the three Victoria plays on the final night, a Saturday. The reason for these requests was mainly because of the increased entry fee, making the expense to which small groups desiring to enter the festival are put almost prohibitive in many cases.

 Whether either of these requests are complied with or not, the early date of the regional festival makes it necessary to hold the elimination contest early in January. In order to arrange dates and get a suitable place for holding the contest, the number of teams entering must be in the hands of the chairman by November 1. This information should be sent as soon as possible to Captain T. L. Thorpe-Douglas, 1712 Montleith Street. Details as to names of plays, casts, and so on should be sent in not later than December 1, so as to arrange for the printing of the programmes and tickets before the Christmas holidays if possible.
 Those intending entering a team are reminded of the by-law passed last year, to the effect that a play presented by an organization during the last twelve months may not be entered by that same group in the festival.
 Invitations to enter a team or teams will be sent to the various organizations of the city immediately upon the receipt by the chairman of the rules governing the 1936 festival.
Port Alberni
 Port Alberni, Sept. 18.—Mrs. R. J. Burde, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. H. P. Nightingale, returned on Saturday from an auto trip to eastern Canada, including Toronto, Montreal, Midway, and Pelly Sound, returning via Chicago, Montana, and Dakota.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cronk accompanied to Victoria their daughter,

Olga, who is training at St. Joseph's Hospital.
 Miss Isabel Freeze of Merritt is holidaying in the city. She is a daughter of A. G. Freeze, former magistrate of the city.
 Miss Louise Farris, who has been spending the summer vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Farris, left Monday for Vancouver to resume studies at University of British Columbia.
 Miss Lily Elliott, Harwood Street, Vancouver, is making an extended visit here with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott.
 Miss Eva Tingly, Courtenay, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Anderson, Third Avenue.
 George Bellamy, formerly of the local staff of the Bank of Montreal, now stationed at New Westminster, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bellamy.
 Miss Elaine Tanner has returned from a holiday in Victoria.
 Mrs. Gordon Campbell motored to Victoria Monday.
 Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Rignone were hosts at their home, Hemley House, River Road, Saturday evening in compliment to their daughter Patty, prior to her leaving for Victoria, where she will enter St. Joseph's Hospital to begin training as a nurse.
 Invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Todd, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Dorothy Nicol, Miss Mabel Lawson, Miss Evelyn Stephens, Messrs. T. Burch, Frank Johnson, Eric Dunn and Richard Hanna.

GROUPS TILT IN LOUISIANA

Gaps Develop in Political Machine Left By Late Huey Long
 Associated Press
 New Orleans, Sept. 18.—The political machine left by U.S. Senator P. Long stood in danger of exploding from spontaneous combustion to-day unless a dispute among its lieutenants could be quelled.
 Governor O. K. Allen, who became field captain of the forces after the death of Senator Long from a pistol bullet, was having a hard time keeping his ambitious lieutenants in the ranks. Too many of them wanted to be the captain.
 The Governor yesterday called in his leaders from the country parishes, and started to tell them what he wanted done, as he had seen his chief lieutenant Long do, but the country boys began to ask questions and talk back.
 Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, "share-the-wealth" organizer, threatened to take his followers, whom he estimated at 300,000, to another camp if his group was not consulted in framing a slate of candidates for the January election.
 Until that happened it appeared a selection might have been made between Allen J. Bellender, speaker of the Louisiana House, and Lieutenant Governor James A. Noy as the candidate for governor.

John Chick Heads Minor Ice League

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 18.—John Chick, Windsor, Ont., was elected president of the International Hockey League at a meeting of league officers here yesterday evening to act on franchisees for Rochester and Pittsburgh.
 Chick succeeds Charles S. King, Windsor, who has been president of the league since its inception nine years ago. King declined to run again.

When Poisons Clog KIDNEYS and Irritate Bladder

JUST DO THIS
 Go to your druggist to-day and get this safe, swift and harmless diuretic and stimulant—ask for Gold Medal Harems Oil Capsules and start at once to flush kidneys of waste matter saturated with acids and poisons.
 That's the way to bring about healthy kidney activity and stop that bladder irritation which often causes scanty passage with stinging and burning as well as restless nights.
 Remember, the kidneys often need flushing as well as the bowels, and some symptoms of kidney weakness are: Getting up once or twice during the night; puffing eyes—cramps in legs—backache and moist palms. But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Harems Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Harems in Holland—the price is small (40 cents), the good results will fulfill your expectations.

Novel Programme For "Y" Opening

A very happy time is in store for the girls who gather at the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday evening for the opening and registration of classes, clubs and interest groups.

Miss I. Parfitt will lead the group singing of old and new songs, assisted by Miss Maquinn Daniels at the piano.

Readings will be given by Miss Gertrude Partridge and a one-woman drama, entitled "New York, 1934" will be given by Miss Elsa Finlayson.

Wm. Harkness, the famous magician, will delight the audience with mystery and magic.

Mrs. R. Felton, convener of the Girls' Work Committee, will preside as chairman and Mrs. Angus, president, will bring greetings and a welcome to the guests.

Interesting notes about the year's activities will be presented by Miss Margaret Ryan.

Registrations for gymnasium, swimming, badminton and the out-door club will be taken by Mrs. Felton and Mrs. T. Hammond, for club groups and interest groups by Mrs. Cushing and Miss M. Lawson, for handicrafts by Mrs. A. Stewart and Miss Nan Eaton.

The refreshment committee will be in charge of Mrs. P. A. Gibbs and Mrs. W. M. Walker.

ROYAL WEDDING PLANS MOOTED

Canadian Press Cable
London, Sept. 18.—A report the King's third son, the Duke of Gloucester, and his fiancée, Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott, would be married in Westminster Abbey, appeared in the Manchester Guardian to-day.

Informal circles took this with reserve. It is understood the King and Queen and the bride's parents are considering the propriety of a wedding in St. Giles' Cathedral at Edinburgh, the bride's family—the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch and Queensberry—being so prominent in Scottish life.

In any event the ceremony is expected to take place before Christmas

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, North Vancouver, announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Dorothy, to Mr. Charles Warbrick Deans, eldest son of Mrs. A. D. Muskhett of Qualicum, formerly of Victoria, and the late Ralph W. Deans of Summerland. The wedding will take place in St. John's Church, North Vancouver, on October 12 at 8 p.m.

Lady Astley Cubitt, wife of the Governor of Bermuda, who returned to the Empress Hotel a few days ago after visits to Alaska, Jasper Park, and up-island, left last night for Seattle, from where she will fly to San Francisco. Lady Cubitt will spend ten days in that city and ten days in Hollywood before leaving for Colorado. She will return to her home in Bermuda via the Panama Canal.

Mrs. Gordon Godwin, formerly Miss Doris Rines, whose marriage took place recently, and who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Rines, Moss Street, for a few days, will leave on Saturday for Booth, Oregon, to join her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Godwin will make their home at Seaside, Oregon. During her stay, Mrs. Godwin has been the guest of honor at several parties arranged by her friends.

Mrs. J. Wells entertained at a children's party at her home on Obed Avenue yesterday, in honor of the ninth birthday of her little daughter, Muriel. The little guests enjoyed games, and were later entertained at tea. The table was prettily decorated in pink and white, centred with the birthday cake, inscribed with the name of the guest of honor, and illuminated with nine pink candles. The guests included: Joyce and Kathleen Morrish, June Tunson, Doreen Daniel, Peggy Hallam, Shirley Wilkinson, May Reeves, Jerry Ash, Mildred Cummings, Evelyn Cobb, Mildred Evelyn and Jimmy Wells.

Women members of the Victoria Golf Club entertained at tea in the Oak Bay clubhouse yesterday afternoon in honor of the visiting players here for the Canadian Women's Close championship. Great bowls and baskets of goldenrod, white tea poppies and chrysanthemums were used throughout the lounge, while the tea table in the dining-room was centred with three of the club's handsome silver trophies, filled with zinnias in brilliant colors. Mrs. A. T. Goward and Mrs. C. W. Pangman poured tea, while Mrs. A. K. Mitchell, the ladies' captain, welcomed the many guests, who also included representatives of other C.L.O.U. clubs in the city.

Mr. Warren Morse of Port Angeles has come over to join his wife, Mrs. Morse, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. H. S. Howard, Pout Bay Road, and will spend a few days here before returning home.

Complimenting Miss E. D. Greenlee, R.N. of the staff of the West Coast Hospital, whose marriage to Dr. Garner will be an event of next month, Miss V. de Blackquell and Miss Jessie Jones, formerly of Victoria, and now a resident at Redford Road, Port Alberni, were joint hostesses at a towel shower at their residence on Friday evening, prior to the bride-elect's departure for Vancouver. Bath towels and tea towels were presented in a novel box decorated in orange and white, from the guests, who comprised the nursing staff of the West Coast Hospital and included the matron, Miss E. Ellis, and the Misses Agnes Patterson, Frances Dopson, Alice Warren, Barbara Murray, Mamie McDonald, Harriet Tuttle, Jean McGarrigle, Dana Rowan, Esther Bird, Minerva Page, Christine Clark, Jean Murray, Augustine McKay and Martha McDonald.

A delightful gathering of the Sunday school teachers and choir of the James Bay United Church was held at the home of Mrs. F. Schroeder, Lurton Street, yesterday evening, in honor of Miss Edna Dilworth, who is leaving for Vancouver to make her home. Many games and contests were enjoyed during the evening, and before refreshments were served, Mr. F. W. Davey, Sunday school superintendent, presented Miss Dilworth with a traveling case, on behalf of the guests. Mr. Davey expressed his regret at losing the valuable services of Miss Dilworth, who had conducted the beginners' class for the last few years. Rev. W. R. Brown seconded these remarks and added that the choir was also losing one of its most popular members. Miss Dilworth has been associated with James Bay United Church since she was three years of age, and will leave behind a host of friends.

The refreshment table was covered with a colored linen cloth and centred with a bowl of autumn flowers. Mrs. F. Schroeder and Mrs. T. Southern poured tea, assisted by Miss Eleanor and Norma Schroeder and Miss Phyllis Dilworth. Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. R. PRESBYTERIAL HELD RALLY

Presbyterian W.M.S. Receive Encouraging Reports of All Branches

The annual rally of the Presbyterian W.M.S. of Victoria, held yesterday evening in St. Andrew's Church. There was a large attendance from Victoria churches and also many delegates from up-island, both from Port Alberni and Nanaimo. Rev. D. McCulloch of Port Alberni, was also present.

Mrs. W. L. Clay, first vice-president, presided over the meeting in the absence of Mrs. W. Sanders, the president, who has been ill for some time. Her many friends will be happy to know she is well on the way to recovery.

Mrs. Bealand read the 148th Psalm and Mrs. J. Dickson led in prayer. Greetings from Mrs. W. Sanders were read by Mrs. W. L. Clay. Mrs. Kerr sang a beautiful solo which was very fitting to the missionary meeting. Mrs. Clay introduced Mrs. M. R. Thompson, provincial president from Vancouver, who gave a very splendid and encouraging report of the Dominion council meeting held in Toronto last May. Her report covered all the various branches of the society's work all over the Dominion of Canada and also in the overseas mission fields.

Despite the stress and strain of world conditions the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is still able to do her bit," Mrs. Thompson said as she urged the members to carry on in prayer and faith and much would be accomplished. She said as there was no cause in the work of the society for alarm, no cause for regrets, as they closed their books on December, 1935, free from debt.

Mrs. G. A. Lister, Presbyterian treasurer, then gave her report and it was very gratifying to Victoria presbytery to hear that the givings toward this year's allocation were well ahead of this time last year.

Mrs. John Dempsey gave a very pleasing report regarding the supply work. All allocations had been more than filled and many beautiful and warm garments had been sent out to the various children's schools and homes.

Rev. J. S. Patterson brought greetings from presbytery and spoke very encouragingly of the work of the church. He also paid high tribute to the Women's Missionary Society as a spiritual body that in these precarious times could not be shaken, and urged them to still carry their banner high, always abounding in the work of the Lord.

The meeting was closed with the benediction by Rev. J. S. Patterson.

Workingmen's clubs of England have been warned not to install slot gambling machines.

Wireless direction finders for ships are being installed along the South African coast.

C.G.I.T. NAME THEIR LEADERS

Miss Lilian Parfitt Re-elected President of Council

Miss Lilian Parfitt, who has done such valuable work as chairman of the Victoria C.G.I.T. Leaders' Council during the past year, was re-elected president at the annual meeting of the council held at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday evening.

The meeting was well attended by a good representation of C.G.I.T. leaders and workers from various city churches. Miss Olive Lynn was re-elected secretary-treasurer after two years' service to the council in that position. Both officers were offered the appreciation of the members for their outstanding service.

Other officers are: Honorary president, Miss Gladys Bell; vice-president, Miss M. Moscrop; sponsor of girls' council, Miss Minnie Beveridge; assistant sponsor, Miss Margaret Fleming; corresponding secretary, Miss Nellie Cameron; denominational representatives, United Church, Mrs. A. J. Daniels; Anglican Church, Mr. W. Hartley; City Temple, Mrs. Maynard Hammond. Members at large, Mrs. W. P. Freeman, Mrs. Parrell and Mrs. A. Todd; Y.W.C.A. representative, Miss Margaret Ryan.

Annual reports, giving glowing accounts of the work during the year, were enthusiastically received. Girls' council report given by the sponsor, Miss Minnie Beveridge, showed that twenty churches were linked up by the council and that splendid work was done to promote and stimulate the ideals of the Canadian Girls in Training movement.

The secretary's report by Olive Lynn gave a brief resume of all events of importance which were held during the past year. Many changes were obvious in the type of programme arranged and it was felt that the discussions held, and the fellowship gatherings were most effective. Miss Lynn also presented the treasurer's report.

Miss Margaret Ryan, the girls' work secretary of the Y.W.C.A., gave a most comprehensive report of the C.G.I.T. camp which was held at the Y.M.C.A. camp site at Glens Lake in August, and Mrs. R. Plumb presented the financial report of the camp.

On behalf of the council, the president warmly thanked all those who had assisted in the work which was so faithfully and loyally carried out by the executive during the year.

The evening was brought to a close by an inspirational worship service which was led by Mrs. William Allen of Wilkeson Road United Church.

Twenty Kidnappers Arrested in Tientsin

Tientsin, China, Sept. 18.—The arrest of a gang of twenty Chinese on kidnapping charges led yesterday to disclosures of cruelty which authorities said had seldom been equaled in the annals of crime. Bodies of twenty supposed victims were found beneath floors of houses in various parts of the city.

Leaders of the gang confessed, police said, that they had immediately strangled the victims after they were kidnapped. Ransoms were demanded but the bodies were never returned.

ANALYZE HOME LIFE OF CHILD

Parent-teacher Congress Outlines Factors For Mental Health

Associated Press
Chicago, Sept. 18.—A check list whereby parents may determine whether the child in their home is fortunate, or unfortunate, for being there was released yesterday at the board meeting of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The list was prepared by the child guidance department of the Seattle public schools, headed by Dr. Frances Gaw, who also is chairman of the mental hygiene committee of the National Congress.

Based on what were termed constructive factors for mental health, the child is dubbed fortunate if parents can answer "yes" to the following questions:

1. Is the child a "junior partner" in family life and its responsibilities?
2. Does he feel secure in his parents' affection without monopolizing the stage?
3. Does he express his own individuality and compete happily?
4. Is he in good general physical condition?

5. Is his usual "emotional tone" peaceful and contented?
6. Is the purpose of necessary punishment to show him that certain activities "do not pay"?
7. Have his parents learned—and taught him—to ignore some things, not to worry about trifles and frequently to "laugh it off"?
8. Is he usually happy?

The youngster is pronounced unfortunate if the parents "yes" to the following:

1. Is he shielded and too much done for and to him?
2. Is he uncertain of his place in the home?
3. Has he learned to get attention through emotional outbursts?
4. Do his parents try to realize their ambitions or thwarted desires through him?
5. Has he become a "problem" because of chronic fatigue or ill health?
6. Is he over-stimulated, subject to "ups and downs"?
7. Is punishment the result of parental irritation or is he let off because "he is so cute"?
8. Is he unhappy, seclusive, over-sensitive or afraid?

CRITICS PRAISED BUCKLIN GIRLS

The Misses Mary and Adele Bucklin, who will appear in recital this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Empress Hotel, assisted by Randolph Hokanson of Seattle, won warm praise from the New Zealand critics during their residence there.

In a review of their concert, given jointly with Frederick Page, The Otago Daily Times said, in part:

"The Misses Bucklin have at their command technique which has been brought to a high state of proficiency. Miss Adele Bucklin, the violinist, is a tonalist of rare distinction, the lovely quality achieved by her firm, yet sensitive bowing combining with her executive qualifications to make her work a joy to the ear. As a cellist Miss Mary Bucklin stands pre-eminent among the performers on this instrument heard in Dunedin for many years. The depth and richness of her tone quality, the character and fluency of her bowing, immediately stamped her as one who has already advanced far in her art."

To-night's recital is under the management of Mrs. J. O. Cameron.

"Flappers" Now Good Mothers

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Dr. Frances Gaw, Seattle, psychologist, to-day said the "flappers" and "jelly beans" of the post-war generation had become excellent parents.

She based her opinion on observations as head of the Seattle public school child guidance department, explaining the parents of the children now in school were those of the post-war period.

"These parents have either become ultra conservative," she said, "or they have become sanely liberal, convinced that the freedom they took in their youth was ultimately a good thing for them, and determined their children shall have freedom. However, they want to guide their children to a right use of that freedom."

"I have an idea that the 'flapper' mamas and 'jelly bean' papas who as parents to-day have swung to extreme conservatism were the wildest in their youth."

"Too much conservatism, she said, was unfortunate, for children should not only be given good principles but a knowledge of life and how to evaluate it."

Wives Pronounce Own Judgments

Associated Press
Swainsboro, Ga., Sept. 17.—Judge Alfred Herrington of the Swainsboro City Court is letting women pronounce their own judgments in wife-beating cases. The first woman to do so gave her husband the maximum sentence—twelve months at hard labor.

Judge Herrington, saying he never seemed "able to pass a sentence in a wife-beating case that is satisfactory to the wife," announced: "Henceforth, it shall be my rule to let the wife suggest the sentence and I will make that the judgment of the court."

A thirty-five-year-old negro farmer, who pleaded guilty, was the first to feel the effect of the novel plan.

JUDGE'S DAUGHTER AND CHARMING ATTENDANTS

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD D. PEERS (nee McQuarrie) and Attendants

The bride's many friends in Victoria will be interested in this charming photograph taken after the marriage of Mary Frances Caroline, only daughter of Mr. Justice and Mrs. W. G. McQuarrie, of the Royal City, to Mr.

Richard D. Peers, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Peers, of Burnaby Lake, and nephew of Sir Chas. Peers, C.B.E., F.R.S., of Chislehampton House, Oxfordshire, England. The wedding took place at Holy Trinity Cathedral, New

Challenges Churches To Fight New Liquor Issue

Rev. Andrew Roddan Urges W.C.T.U. to Oppose Beer and Light Wines Campaign; Criticizes Sir Edward Beatty's Attitude

Challenging the church and all Christians to arm themselves for the new fight against the liquor interests, Rev. Andrew Roddan, president of the B.C. Temperance League, delivered a rousing address before the opening session of the provincial convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday evening at the Emmanuel Baptist Church. Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, president of the W.C.T.U., presided. Touching on the petition now before the government, asking for beer and light wines in restaurants, the speaker declared: "If we have to lower our standards to catch the American tourists, they had better stay the other side of the line."

SIR EDWARD BEATTY
Mr. Roddan was caustic on the subject of Sir Edward Beatty's recent advocacy of beer and light wines in hotels and restaurants.

"When Sir Edward Beatty, a clever man who has made a great contribution to Canada—and got a good return for it—advocates beer and light wines, he is missing his mark. He is not interested in the social welfare of the people of Canada, he is only interested in increasing the dividends of the C.P.R.," the speaker claimed.

"Take the profit-taking motive out of the liquor business and you've nothing left," Mr. Roddan continued. The Quebec system is a system of money-raising, not merely a system of liquor control, said Mr. Roddan, in branding as a fallacy the idea that the eastern province's system is proving effective.

The time had come for the people of this province to be consulted on the beer and light wine proposal instead of leaving it to the politicians, the speaker urged. He commended the suggestion that a plebiscite be taken on the question.

But the next forward movement in the temperance movement would be the socialization of the liquor business, Mr. Roddan claimed, because by removing the profit motive the incentive to sell it would be killed.

MAKE POLITICIANS TREMBLE

The speaker declared he was still awaiting contradiction on the floor of the provincial House of the statement made at a church conference some time ago to the effect that $100,000 had been given to B.C. political party funds by the liquor interests.

"If we could only spend $1 for each $2,000 the liquor interests spend in advertising, we could make the politicians tremble," claimed the speaker. He also described the loss of liquor trade which had followed in the wake of the depression, and had led to the liquor interests increasing their advertising by a huge amount during the last few years in an attempt to revive trade.

SILVER MEDAL WON

During the early part of the meeting a senior silver contest was held, in which six young people gave readings based upon words of Shakespeare bearing upon temperance. The judges were Rev. Dr. Clem Davies, Dr. S. J. Willis and Mr. Frank Paulding, who awarded the silver medal to Miss Winnie White.

The soloists were Miss Elizabeth Jones, who sang "The Poor Men's Garden" (Kennedy Russell), and "Bless This House" (Brake), and Arthur Jackson, whose songs were "Beyond the Dawn" (Henderson), and "The Heavenly Song" (Gray). Both soloists were accompanied by Miss Winifred Scowcroft at the organ.

EXECUTIVE MEETS

An executive meeting was held in the afternoon upon the arrival of the delegates from the mainland, and committees were appointed as follows: Plan of work, Mrs. A. C. Tingley; resolutions, Mrs. T. H. Wright, courtesies, Mrs. G. C. Spofford; press books, Mrs. T. B. Manuel; credentials and budget, Mrs. C. W. Yapp. A resolution to be brought to the convention is the grading of the Young People's Branches into senior and intermediate groups.

The sessions continue to-day and to-morrow. In addition to to-day's business meeting, a drive to Mr. Butchart's Gardens has been planned for the afternoon and a banquet at 6 o'clock this evening. Mrs. G. C. Spofford will preside as hostess for the Victoria unions.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE RAIN WAS falling pitter-patter on the Polo Grounds one day recently when a group of baseball writers paid a surprise visit to Colonel Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants of the National Baseball League. Terry was seated at his desk in the clubhouse. Travis Jackson and Gus Mancuso occupied chairs pulled up close to the manager's desk. They were in conference. After about ten minutes, Travis and Gus moved off, and there was a chance for the newspaper boys to catch Memphis Bill alone and question him on baseball affairs.

Colonel Terry looked just the least bit thin and drawn, as who wouldn't when running a club that had let a long lead slip away in a pennant race. He shrugged his shoulders when the usual question "What's the matter with the Giants?" was tossed at him.

Well, at one time early in July they had a nine-game lead and Memphis Bill seemed to be leading a better ball club than the one he had last year. Mancuso was hitting higher. Clyde Castleman had been added to the staff. Dardell Dick Bartell had righted up the infield. Hank Leiber was a welcome addition to the outfield.

They should have won last year. With these improvements and reinforcements and the way they romped off to a lead, lead, Giant fans thought it would be just a matter of time.

"I never thought so," said Memphis Bill with a shake of his head.

Well, why not? The St. Louis Cardinals had picked up no starting rookies to improve their club over the 1934 edition. The Chicago Cubs had pepped up their roster with young blood.

"That's right," said Memphis Bill, drumming with his fingers on the desk.

"But when you talk about the improvements on this club over last year—what about the de-provements? Our pitching hasn't been so hot lately. Look at the loss of Fred Fitzsimmons. Fred won eighteen games for us last year."

But Clyde Castleman had been added this season and Bud Parnelle, with last year's experience.

"There's another point," said Bill gloomily. "Bud hasn't been going so good lately—as you may have noticed. Hank finished a game in his last seven starts."

Arm all right? Digestion good? Sound in wind and limb?

"As far as anybody can see," answered Colonel Terry with another shrug of his shoulder, "Hank's arm is a little sore. That's one good thing about this rain. It gives Carl another day to rest up."

"And another thing," said Memphis Bill, raising an arresting hand, "second base. We've lost a lot of ball games through there this season. Critz was out. We got Koenig as a handy man. We showed him here and there—and Mark's done all right for us. Pretty fair hitter. But you've gotta have a regular second baseman for a championship team—and we haven't had one this season."

There was something in that. A key position to which Colonel Bill had no key.

"Well, we have one now, with Hugsby back at work," said Colonel Terry. "And you mentioned Leiber. That's one reason why our long lead disappeared. Hank went into a slump—stopped driving in those runs that were so important. If he gets going again—and with Critz at second—and a bit of steadiness in the box—we'll see."

Irvin (Ace) Bailey has been appointed coach of the University of Toronto hockey team for next season, and it can be said right here and now that no better man could have been selected.

"Ace" Bailey knows his stuff. As an amateur and later as a professional, he earned the admiration of friend and foe alike by his ability to play cleanly and effectively. In one season he led all the point-getters in the National League, but it was because of his backchecking ability that he endeared himself to his teammates and management.

In December, 1933, Bailey was knocked almost into eternity in a collision with Eddie Shore at Boston. His skull was badly fractured. Doctors despaired of saving his life, but they didn't know that no braver man than "Ace" Bailey ever existed.

As a youngster Bailey came to Toronto from Bracebridge seeking to make good in lacrosse and hockey. He went over the top with a bang as a

Nine Victorians In Championship

Toronto women golfers blanketed the field of sixty-one in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the Canadian women's close championship at the Colwood Golf Club yesterday, taking the first three places and gaining a tie for the fourth. Medalist honors went to Mrs. E. H. Gooderham, petite blonde from the Ontario city, with a fine card of 81.

Mrs. Gooderham was two strokes better than her two townswomen, Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen and Miss Ada Mackenzie, holder of the national open crown, who marked up 83. Mrs. E. W. Whittington, Toronto, tied with Mrs. E. E. Jackson, Uplands Club, for fourth position with an 85. Miss Marjorie Todd, Victoria Golf Club, was sixth with an 87, and Mrs. Roy Horne, sharpshooting matron from Calgary, seventh with an 88.

WIN IN PLAY-OFF

Scores of 90 or better were necessary to make the thirty-two qualifiers for the championship flight, with four players, Mrs. C. E. Wilson and Miss Aileen Benson, Victoria, and Alice Mountfield, Edmonton, and Miss Willo Love, Toronto, playing off for the last two places. Miss Love was not present for the play-off and in the battle between the three Miss Benson and Miss Mountfield won.

Victoria qualified nine players for the title flight. In addition to Mrs. Jackson, Miss Todd and Miss Benson, the following local stars made the championship flight, including: Mrs. Vera Hutchings Ford, defending champion, with a 90; Miss Kay Farrell, 89; Mrs. S. C. Sweeney, 90; Miss Marcia Moss, 94; Mrs. A. McAllister, 94, and Miss K. Duff-Stewart, 94.

In clicking off her medal-winning score, Mrs. Gooderham stroked over the first nine in 43, five more than women's par. On the incoming nine she settled down to shoot perfect golf on all but one hole, the 393-yard sixteenth, where she was short with her second and took three to reach the green, holing out in two for a five. She lost three strokes on the first three holes of the outgoing nine when she was a little untidy off the tee.

She dropped another stroke on the fifth and one more on the ninth. In the play-off for the interprovincial team match honors, as a result of Monday's tie, Ontario defeated Quebec by a total score of 333 to 368.

member of the Mimico O.A.L.A. team, and when the hockey season rolled around he joined the famous Aura Lee Juniors.

In those days Bailey was under the impression he was a defence man. Coach Bill Macdonald didn't think so, and willingly turned this ambitious puck-chaser over to St. Mary's, then managed by Frank Selke.

Bailey was moved to the forward line, and became an overnight sensation. Later on he joined the Peterborough's seniors, and attracted the attention of the Montreal Maroons.

He was offered $5,000 for three years' service. He declined, and eventually refused to sign a contract unless he was guaranteed $15,000. Maroons released him, but St. Patrick's signed him under a three-year contract calling for $17,500, one of the largest salaries ever offered to an amateur star. (Bill Carson got $22,500 from the same club.)

"Irvin the Ace" earned that stipend. The money was well spent, and the Maple Leafs, who bought out St. Patrick's, continued to pay Bailey just as generously.

Swim Endurance Record Broken

Allahabad, India, Sept. 18.—Robin Chatterji claimed the world endurance swimming record yesterday. He had been in the water more than eighty-seven hours and still was going strong.

Kreske Softball Party To-morrow

Members of the three Kreske softball teams will gather at the C.C.F. Hall, Port Street, to-morrow evening for a wind-up party. Dancing will start at 8.30 o'clock and all members of the clubs are invited to attend along with their partners.

Members of the teams are reminded again that they have to turn in their sweaters to Charlie Lewis at the store.

LAWN BOWLING

Burnside bowlers hope to welcome many players next Sunday afternoon. Thereafter fall work will commence and play will be limited to fewer greens. To avoid disappointment, intending visitors are requested to get their entries in on Saturday afternoon or Sunday forenoon. Play will commence at 1.30 o'clock the game to consist of thirty ends in three periods.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

YOU CAN SEE THE WIND IF YOU HOLD A SAW IN IT AND GO OUT ALONG THE BRICK

THE DEATH BANQUET

HENRY MORGAN, EX-PYRATE AND LIEUT. GOV. OF JAMAICA, GAVE A SUMPTUOUS BANQUET FOR HIS SEAMEN, LISTENED TO THEIR STORIES OF PIRACY—THEN HANGED THEM ALL THE NEXT DAY!

Strange as it seems, you can actually see air in motion—just as you can see water in motion. The best way to prove this is to take a straight edge—the back of an ordinary carpenter's saw will do very well—and hold it up so that the wind blows against the side. Now stand along the edge and you will see air flowing over the back of the saw like water over a dam. Air currents of different temperatures have different refracting properties, and their movement can therefore be seen.

The eccentric Rev. Francis Henry Morgan, Earl of Bridgewater, who lived a little more than a century ago, in England, kept track of the date by the number of pairs of worn shoes in his wardrobe. He wore one pair of new shoes every day, never wearing the same pair twice. After wearing a pair, he always kept them—row after row of them—marked off like a calendar with days, weeks and months. Thus, with twenty-seven pairs of shoes on the July row, he knew that the month was about over.

Sir Henry Morgan, once the pirate terror of the seas, was fully as much feared by former associates after he became Lieutenant-Governor of Jamaica, as he was by peaceful voyagers in his pirate days. Nobody knew pirates as well as the old explorer himself, so when a strange ship put into port Morgan's suspicions were aroused in spite of the fact that the crew was well-behaved and orderly. Morgan invited officers and crew, the entire company, to the house for dinner. There they talked over many glasses of wine—so many in fact that the guests talked freely of their pirate activities and plans. Next day Morgan had them hanged.

When Frank Beban of Extension, bred his good sire Somers Meir to a mare named Miss Turley four years ago he produced a racing thoroughbred of no mean ability in a black colt which he named Big Pine. In the British Columbia, futurity last year Big Pine went to the post with top weight and carrying most of the public money, but was unable to maintain the dizzy pace he set for the first half mile and finished fourth.

As a two-year-old, the horse did win a couple of purse races, but it was not until this year as a three-year-old, that he demonstrated his real racing capabilities. At Willows track yesterday he captured his fifth race of the current season by winning the Colwood Handicap, feature of the card, and whipped such good horses as Bert Ferri's Evidently, C. Nelson's Standstill and Mrs. L. D. Fisher's Slickie Bill, winner of the Washington Derby at Longacres.

With this victory Big Pine's record for his two years of racing is seven wins, three seconds and one third out of twenty starts, a winning average of 35 per cent, which is good on any race track.

The horse set all his own pace over the mile and had a comfortable margin at the finish over the favorite.

A $301.30 pay off in the daily double was the other feature of yesterday's racing. Last Touch, a twenty-three to one shot, spiked a lucky win in the second and then Herb Fullerton's Jungle Hen finally managed to keep close enough to the rail to beat a cheap field in the third. Only thirteen bettors bought double tickets on Last Touch and only two of them were lucky enough to pick Jungle Hen, as the second horse.

J. E. Shaw, 2955 Milgrove Street held one ticket. The other was purchased jointly by four youths, N. Austin, Bob Simpson, Jack Young and Bill Leeming who put numbers in a hat and drew one for each race.

Dr. Ken Darbyshire woke up his well-bred mare Big Joke to score a surprise win in the sixth. She led all the way and paid off at thirteen to one. Incidentally he gave Jockey Grant a leg up on the horse and the lad scored the first win of his riding career.

M. H. Barry's Witton found the drying track out to his liking after the dismal display in the slop last Friday and took the fourth from a fast field of sprinters. He returned $12.70. The one-two bet returned $7.85 in the fifth and $18.45 in the seventh.

George Lowe, "Chinese Flash," will tangle with Reggie Hopkins in the main wrestling attraction. They will battle five four-minute rounds and will meet at 135 pounds. The opener will be at 8 o'clock.

The semi-windup grappling match will bring together Scotty Simoni and James Foy, catchweight grapplers. They will go three four-minute rounds.

Five boxing bouts will complete the card. All will be three two-minute rounds.

The main event will bring together Alec Whitehead and Young Reiser at 135 pounds.

Red James and Young Duval will exchange blows in the eighty-pound class. All will be three two-minute rounds.

Young Mildred will battle Ken Earl in the eighty-pound class, while in the same class Dunc Allan will exchange blows with Jerry Wilson.

Red Knowles and Red Clark, popular youngsters of the fistcluffs game, will fight in the eighty-pound division. Louis Callan will referee the bouts.

Senior and intermediate rugby players of the Canadian Scottish are asked to attend a work-out 16-morrows evening at the Armories, Bay Street, at 8 o'clock.

Chicago Sweeps On To Pennant

Chicago Streak Hard on Laundry

Chicago, Sept. 18.—The big Chicago Cubs' winning streak is hard on the laundry business. Since the Cubs started on their victory string, now 14 straight, the players have refused to change to freshly laundered uniforms. Except for a few bench warmers, they look as though they have been sleeping on dusty park benches for weeks.

Outfielder Augie Galan may have to do some explaining because of the pet superstition when he gets back home in Berkeley, Cal. His father runs a laundry.

Cubs Hang Up Fourteenth Straight Victory at Expense of New York Giants

League Lead; Cards Divide Two

Chicago Cubs sweep on, leaving the riddled New York Giants in their wake, gathering steam for the St. Louis Cardinals joust that lie ahead. They made it fourteen straight wins yesterday, these madcap Cubs who have come up from the rear to gain two-and-a-half-game lead on the Cards and five and a half on the Giants. They play two more with the New Yorkers, two more with Pittsburgh, then on to St. Louis where they will play five games with Frisch's boys in the series that probably will decide where the pennant shall wave.

The Giants proved jittery under pressure as the Cubs beat them 5 to 3. It looked as though the Cubs' win streak was broken for a while as Hal Schumacher hotfooted them for five innings. Frisch's Hal injured his shoulder, however, and on his retirement Joe Moore and Hank Leiber made a pair of errors that handed the game to the Cubs.

In the sixth Moore attempted to hurry his handling of a hard single by Demaree and the ball went through him. Two runs and a hit followed. In the next inning, Leiber allowed Galan's single to roll to the right-field fence as Frisch scored and Galan raced to third.

St. Louis split a doubleheader with Brooklyn Dodgers as only one of the Dean brothers came through as relief hurlers. Paul went to the mound in the final innings of the first game with one run in and none out to stop the Stengels boys and give the Cards a 4 to 2 win, but Dunc called to duty with the Cards one run ahead in the seventh frame of the nightcap, lost 2 to 7 as the Dodgers hopped on him for three runs.

Pittsburgh Pirates collected five runs in the first inning of their game with the incoherent Boston Braves and then coasted to a 5 to 4 victory.

Philadelphia scored a total of four runs to take both ends of a doubleheader from Cincinnati, 3 to 2, and 1 to 0.

Wesley Ferrell of the Boston Red Sox blocked the Detroit Tigers' royal road and defeated the American League leaders 5 to 4 as he chalked up his twenty-fourth win of the season.

Tony Lazzeri came through with a pinch single in the ninth to drive home Red Rolfe with a run and a 4 to 3 decision for the New York over St. Louis Browns. The win, coupled with Detroit's defeat, shaved the Tigers' comfortable "breath" to eight and a half games.

Cleveland Indians defeated the last-place Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 3. Jimmy Dykes' double scored the runs that gave the Chicago White Sox a 3 to 1 victory over Washington in a fourteen-inning struggle.

San Francisco vs. Los Angeles in a playoff series for the 1935 Coast League pennant looms as a near-certainality to-day, but the up-and-down race for the second-half season title still has the fans guessing.

The question is which the San Francisco team will win the half-crown and the right to oppose the Angels, winners of the first half of the split season.

The Seals still are the favorites, but they dropped a full game of their slender lead to the Missions yesterday, when they lost 3 to 0 to Seattle, while the Missions were pointing out an eleven-inning 5 to 3 victory over Hollywood.

The Seals are two games and a half ahead of the Missions, with the last week of the season barely underway. Portland saw their chances for the flag go practically glimmering when Oakland landed all over Hobo Carson for seventeen hits and a 12 to 3 victory.

Los Angeles scored five runs in the first inning and coasted through to a 7 to 3 win over Sacramento.

OLD-TIMER OF CITY PASSES

Mrs. Caroline Cameron, a resident of Victoria for over fifty years, passed away yesterday at the Jubilee Hospital, aged sixty-nine.
Mrs. Cameron was born on San Juan Island and came to Victoria as a young girl, making her home here ever since. She was the widow of William J. Cameron, and resided at 2180 Fernwood Road. Her husband predeceased her about ten years ago, and she is survived by one son and one daughter in San Francisco, and a sister in Nanaimo.
The remains are resting at the

NEWS IN BRIEF

Theft of $17 from the cash box of a Blue Line bus while it was parked in the company's garage at 808 View Street overnight, was reported to the city police this morning.

A meeting of social credit workers and others interested will be held to-morrow night at 402 Union Building for the purpose of forming plans for the coming election.

Steelhead fishing at Stamp River in the Alberni district is excellent, according to reports received this morning by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Rev. Anna B. D. Britton, general supervisor of the Four Square Gospel Churches in Canada, will be special speaker to-night at the Bethany Four Square Lighthouse, Blanshard and Pandora Street, at 8 o'clock.

H. T. Ravenhill will give an account of his experiences in crossing Canada to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Memorial Hall, the subject being "Seeing Something of Canada With a Bicycle." Dean Quinlan will preside.

W. A. McKenzie, listed as speaker at the Conservative meeting to be held at the Oaklands School to-morrow evening, is indisposed, and his place will be taken by P. J. Bennett, who recently left the ranks of the Stevens Reconstruction Party.

The City Temple ladies will hold their annual dedicatory dinner on Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. There will be a social hour and the programme will include recitations by Barbara Oakley, selections by an accordion orchestra, dances by Miss Bonnie Well of Seattle, the guest artist, and also by pupils of Sonia Slavina.

On application of Henry C. Hall, K.C., counsel for the Norris Grain Company, the name of P. S. Ormiston was to-day ordered by Chief Justice Morrison added as a co-defendant with C. L. H. Branson Limited, in the action brought by Norris Grain for some $8,000 arising out of a misunderstanding over an order to sell a block of bonds by wire in New York.

A band concert, to be given by the members of the Bowles' Boys Band, will be held Thursday evening at their headquarters, 1501 Fort Street, commencing at 8 o'clock. Parents of the bandmen are urgently requested to attend and to bring friends. Items on the programme will include the rendering of music recently purchased and a brief summary of the band's activities for the coming winter.

Mrs. H. F. Hirst, 1619 Pembroke Street, has received a pleasant surprise. While at the fair last week, she visited the B.C. Electric's gas and electric show when she filled in a card in the free food-mixer contest. She had forgotten the incident until yesterday when a delivery truck arrived and on opening a box handed to her, Mrs. Hirst found a cuisinart.

Although the summer tourist season is practically over the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau is receiving inquiries daily from people who plan to visit the city during the winter months. Just as the summer during the past season exceeded that of 1934 so, judging from inquiries, the winter tourist business will surpass that of the previous year.

A well-attended card party was held yesterday evening by the Victoria West Liberal Club in its club-rooms, 414 Skinner Street. Eleven tables of progressive five hundred were in play. The president's prize was won by W. Miller; ladies' first prize, Mrs. M. Miller; gentlemen's first prize, W. Nuttall; ladies' consolation prize, Mrs. N. MacKay; gentlemen's consolation prize, J. Carlow. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Would Open Up Big Park Areas

Give Access to Primeval Wonderland By Trails and Tourists Would Come Here in Thousands, Says A. C. Lovekin of Pasadena

Arthur C. Lovekin, retired sugar producer, world traveler and nature lover of Pasadena, Cal., has a well-considered plan to attract more tourists to Vancouver Island and he is prepared to convince the people here that his scheme is workable.

He is Canadian-born, comes from Empire-Loyalist stock, owns 100 acres of the old Faber estate on Sprout Lake, as well as "Ferncliffe," a portion of Governor James Douglas's estate at Metchoon, and forty-five acres of the Fraser property in the same district.

He has seen every corner of the earth and he thinks there is no place to equal Vancouver Island. In fact, he intends to build a home on his Sprout Lake property, and may eventually come here to reside permanently.

"Set aside for posterity 'wilderness areas' typical of the island's flora and fauna," he said. "There is such an area, as yet untouched, bounded on the north by Barkley Sound, to the south by Nitinat Lake, to the east by the old C.N.R. right-of-way and on the west by the Pacific ocean."

Another "wilderness area" on Vancouver Island which should be made accessible by trails, in the opinion of Mr. Lovekin, is the Strathcona Park area, taking in the Forbidden Plateau, the country to the west of Grand Central Lake and embracing the famous Della Falls, with drop of 1,600 feet as compared with Niagara's 160 feet.

"You have here the best all-year-round climate that I know of, and I have seen most places in the world," continued Mr. Lovekin. He makes his home at present in southern California and spent seventeen years in Hawaii when he was engaged in growing sugar. He has visited every natural park on the continent and he has seen nothing better than is available here.

"Nature is so intimate, so close, here. That is probably why you people who live here do not fully appreciate it," he said. "Why, in California, we are paying millions of dollars to get back land which was given away," said Mr. Lovekin.

"If Vancouver Island wants to encourage tourists to come here, there is everything here to bring them in their thousands. "All the world is on wheels these days. They want to come to see what God has done, not what man has accomplished."

"Open up the magnificent natural park areas you have on Vancouver Island, by making them accessible by trails, and you will have no difficulty in bringing people here. It's no use setting aside natural park land unless you open it up. This can be done by building a network of trails. Let the government establish the trails and private enterprise will find means to transport the people into these wonderful primeval areas."

One of the drawbacks to tourists, added Mr. Lovekin, was the existing ferry charges for automobiles.

"Subsidize the ferries and bring people here for 50 cents a head," he said, "and you will quadruple your tourists within a year."

COLLEGE TO OPEN MONDAY

Expect Larger Student Body at Local Institution This Year Than Last

Prospects of an enrolment considerably over that of last year were seen by members of the registrar's office at Victoria College as final preparations were being made for the opening of the fall term on Monday.

To date the registrations have been well above those for the corresponding time last year, a total of 175 having enrolled up to yesterday. In former years the size of classes has been greatly increased during the last few days prior to the opening as well as the first week in which the institution is in session. Authorities expected the 1934-35 total of 225 to be exceeded this year.

OPENING FEATURES
Short talks by Prof. P. H. Elliot, principal of the college, and other officials, will feature the brief opening ceremonies on Monday. The students will be assigned to their various classes and time-tables will be issued. Lectures will start on Tuesday.

During the week student council officers will be elected along with heads of other societies in the college. Rugby practices and other athletic activities will get under way within a short time and the opening social event, a dance at which freshmen are initiated, will follow within a few days.

There will be a meeting to-morrow night at 8 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. of those interested in the Y.M.C.A. Badminton Club.

Slimming Classes Need of the Day

Former Sportsmen Among Those Who Suffer Most From Corpulency: "Physical Jerks" For Business Men Advocated by Director McKinnon.

When you observe a rotund citizen walking the streets with the stately dignity of an alderman or a policeman on the beat, rather than with the spring of youth, it is not far to assume that his stoutness is due to a life of inactivity and ease.

As those who are active as former athletes, according to Archie McKinnon, Y.M.C.A. physical director, who has recently organized slimming classes for fat men.

When the former athletes drop their activities and settle down to the routine of an office desk they are the first to put on weight, Director McKinnon says.

The main thing they retain from their athletic days is the keen appetite of the athlete. From this comes the tendency to corpulence and in Director McKinnon's opinion the only way to fight it is the gym.

There must be a regular routine of physical jerks. For this reason classes for stout business men have been organized at the Y.M.C.A. and will start next Monday at 8:30 o'clock.

Some of those who attend the business men's classes range from middle age to sixty-five and many of them get in fine physical condition as a result of regular training. The class work-outs are not at all strenuous and do not aim to build muscle. On the contrary they embody a light but active routine consisting of volleyball and plenty of stretching and bending.

Telford Speaks To Large Crowd

"Canada and Its Problems" Subject of C.C.F. Lecturer

Running the gamut from Mayor McGeer's police situation in Vancouver and Albert Social Credit in Alberta to the broader subjects of international trade and socialization of finances, Dr. Lyle Telford of Vancouver, entertained a capacity crowd at the City Temple yesterday evening with an address on "Canada and Its Problems."

Dr. Telford, who has been one of the leading C.C.F. speakers for years, saw in that movement the only hope of economic recovery for Canada which would give all its citizens an equal opportunity.

Through the control of natural resources and the issuance of currency sufficient for the people to buy the products of the country, the purchasing power of everyone would be increased, he maintained.

It would be necessary to socialize natural resources before there could be socialization of finance. The speaker dealt with proposed reforms and charged the capitalist system with inability to function.

For this reason he criticized the leaders of the government parties for not foreseeing the breakdown in the capital structure before it happened in 1929.

The C.C.F. speaker approved the Albert Social Credit plan only so far as it was consistent with the C.C.F. purpose of throwing out the old parties and bringing in a new social order.

The objective of Social Credit was very much the same as that of the C.C.F. in that it was a means of sharing among all the people the products of their labor. But, he maintained, social credit had not gone far enough. Eventually it would have to go the whole way and adopt the C.C.F. plan of a socialized economy.

Discussing the latest work undertaken by the C.C.F. he said an economic research bureau had been set up into operation and a new-organized committee on economic planning would meet in Vancouver to-morrow evening. He stated election expenses for public speaking and use of the radio during the campaign would amount to $250 a week and appealed for public support.

Attacking the opposing parties, he said the policy of both Liberal and more work less. That was the Conservative leaders was to borrow only way they could see out of the depression.

SIGNALS MAKE TRAFFIC SAFER

Chief Heatley Satisfied With Results of Automatic Lights

A vast improvement in vehicular and pedestrian traffic in Victoria has resulted from the installation of automatic traffic signals in the business section, Chief of Police Heatley announced this morning.

The chief stated he was more than satisfied with the operation of the signals and is convinced their installation was a progressive step in traffic control.

"I have heard nothing but praise for the signals since they commenced operation," he said, "and even persons who were originally against their purchase have admitted to me they feel safer in traffic controlled by them."

Particular benefits have been noted in pedestrian traffic, the chief said. Persons now appear to feel much safer when they cross at downtown intersections and the signals have abolished the necessity of dodging through a busy corner. There have been no traffic complaints from tourists, he said.

Another feature of the automatic control has been the abolition of jay-walking. There appears to have been a psychological effect on pedestrians which has taken them to intersections to make a safe crossing with the signals in their favor, rather than take a chance by crossing in the middle of a block.

CHEAP OPERATION
One factor of which the chief is justly proud, which supports his argument preceding the installation of signals here, is that the bill for operation of the signals during June, July and August has been only $20. This amounts to $5 an intersection or approximately $1.66 an intersection a month.

The chief is convinced the signals are responsible for an improvement in driving conditions on the outskirts of the city. Motorists have been accustomed to stopping regularly at intersections in town and they follow the same procedure outside and approach an intersection with caution, he said.

The chief expressed the hope that the time was not too far distant when the City Council will see its way clear to install more signals in the business area, for he feels that every intersection so controlled brings Victoria another step forward in aligning itself with other coast cities boasting the most modern methods of traffic regulation.

CONVENTION HERE TO-DAY

Sales Congress of Pacific Coast Division of Metropolitan Life Opens

Headed by F. J. Williams, third vice-president, eighty-five delegates to the sales congress of the Pacific Coast division of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, reached Victoria by the mid-day boat from Seattle.

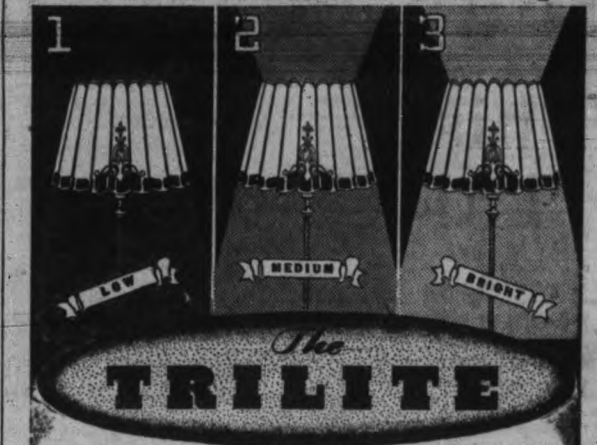

The convention sessions opened this afternoon at the Empress Hotel and will continue for two days. Officials accompanying Vice-president Williams here are John H. Almy, superintendent of agencies, San Francisco; Dr. W. P. Shepard, assistant superintendent of agencies; G. A. Quinzer, and C. W. Schwaner, agency supervisors; D. D. Beardsley, manager of publications division, and R. H. Nash, manager of field education.

The congress discussions will be led by Mr. Almy. The list of delegates here to-day follows: Thomas Abbott, William M. Attebery, Virgil Bryant, Glen J. CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES
1 line per word per insertion.
Minimum charge 5c.
60c per line per month.
Minimum charge $2.50.

Marriage, $1.00 per insertion.
Deaths, $1.00 first insertion, and $1.00
subsequent insertions.
Funeral notices, in Memoriam notices and Card of Thanks, $1.00 per insertion.

In computing the number of words in an advertisement estimate groups of three or less figures as one word. Dollar marks and all abbreviations count as one word.

In estimating the number of lines in an advertisement count five words for the first two lines and seven words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute guide to the number of lines much depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one insertion. Any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire it may have replies addressed to a box at The Times
Office and forwarded to their private address. A charge of 10c is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their addresses changed should notify this office as well as the carrier. If your Times is missing, phone E4175 before 9 a.m. and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

ing with Japan, or for that matter, with any other country," said Mr. King.

TO RECOVER MARKET

"It would be my hope, if a Liberal government were returned to office, that it might still be possible to recover the market in Japan that apparently has been lost to Canada through Mr. Bennett's policies and his handling of the situation, but it would not be any sacrifice, by the Liberals, of Canadian interests."

TARIFF REDUCTIONS

The Liberal Party believed far-reaching and substantial reductions could be made in tariff rates, but a Liberal government would not ignore the legitimate interests of Canadian producers. If returned to power, it would:

"Immediately and materially reduce duties on those articles which enter into the cost of production of our primary industries."

"Effect immediate substantial reduction in the duties on the necessities of life and thus afford a direct measure of relief to every home and to every individual."

"Abolish all unwarranted extra taxes on imports as imposed and administered by the present government."

"Seek larger markets abroad through reciprocal trade agreements and, believing many nations were sick of economic nationalism, 'welcome a genuine attempt to find means of increasing mutual trade on a fair and friendly basis.'"

POSITION OF STEVENS

While a member of the Bennett government, Mr. Stevens was the "most fanatical advocate of those policies of extreme economic nationalism which have destroyed the trade of Canada."

Although it was denied there was an alliance between Mr. Stevens and the Conservative Party, it was interesting to note no Conservative candidate was opposing Mr. Stevens in Kootenay East and no Reconstruction candidate was opposing Mr. Bennett in Calgary West.

"This does not look like war to the death," said Mr. King. "There is a growing conviction that, whatever may be the feelings between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens, the followers of both are only temporarily in different camps—that, once the elections are over, their forces will speedily unite."

The Liberal Party, said Mr. King, had definite policies which had unanimous support and were not specially concocted for the election.

TO PROVIDE WORK

"The Liberal Party," said Mr. King, "is pledged to regard unemployment as Canada's most urgent problem, to deal with unemployment as a national problem, and through the agency of a representative national commission, to co-operate with the provinces and municipalities in the administration of unemployment relief, and in an endeavor to provide work for the unemployed."

"To the enactment of a constitutionally valid system of unemployment insurance, and, as rapidly as the financial position of the country warrants, its expansion into a general scheme of social insurance, including health insurance as well as old age pensions;

"To policies which will liberate and expand our external trade, upon which depends industrial and commercial recovery;

"To the liberation of internal trade, by ending artificial price control and price-fixing, which restricts and hampers trade internally;

LOWER PRODUCTION COSTS

"To the development of primary industries, by reduction in the costs of instruments of production;

"To state assistance in the marketing of natural products;

"To the restoration of control by the State over currency and credit, through the reconstitution of the Bank of Canada;

"To the establishment of an investment control board;

NATIONAL RAILWAYS

"To the maintenance of the integrity of the Canadian National Railways;

"To the democratization of industry, through policies which will seek to give to workers and consumers a larger share in the government of industry;

"To the restoration of responsible government;

"To the reassertion of personal liberty, and the right of free speech and free association;

"To measures of electoral reform, to ensure a truly parliamentary representation of the people, and to reduce the cost of election campaigns;

"To a balanced budget;

"To retrenchment of public expenditures;

INTEREST REDUCTION

"To reduction of the principal and interest on the public debt;

"To an inquiry into federal, provincial and municipal costs of government;

"To a furtherance of international peace and the work of the League of Nations;

"And to a more equitable distribution of wealth, which will have regard to human needs, to the furtherance of social justice, and the promotion of the common good."

Mr. Bennett had sought to warn the people of Canada against the Liberal leader and at the same time had admitted the reform programme had been held up by his own illness. His attitude "a little hard" on his colleagues in the cabinet and his fellow Conservatives.

"Here, I may perhaps be allowed to say to Mr. Bennett that, whatever my qualities for leadership may be, I have never found it necessary, in order that my own personality might thereby be magnified, to deprive my colleagues of due credit for what has been accomplished by the administration of which I have been the head," said Mr. King.

It was clear from Mr. Bennett's words that the carrying out of his policies depended not only on his retaining Prime Minister, but on the condition of his health, said the Liberal leader. What assurance was there Mr. Bennett might not again "let his party down" and "let you down?"

To guard against such contingencies, control of affairs should be widely distributed among members of a cabinet.

CONTRASTS SEEN

Mr. King then contrasted the years of Liberal rule from 1921 to 1930 with a Conservative rule since 1930. Under Liberal rule the country had emerged from depression, debt was reduced, the budget was balanced, and trade increased. Under Conservative rule exactly the opposite happened.

Mr. Bennett had spoken of his success as a businessman, but his record would show that success in business was not always the surest guarantee to success in public administration.

"There can be no greater mistake than to believe that the qualities and methods which make for success in business are necessarily the qualities and methods that make for success in government," said Mr. King. "Especially is this true where social problems are those of greatest concern. A broad survey of the industrial field discloses only too plainly that many so-called business successes have been due to a ruthless disregard of humanitarian considerations."

HUMAN WELLBEING

"Indeed, the crux of the social problem lies in the relative importance we attach to human wellbeing as against material gain. Until we come to regard industry as being in the nature of social service, and see the necessity of dealing with the problems from the point of view of the sacredness of human life and personality, rather than from that of the accumulation of wealth and material reward, there will be, and there should be, no cure for social and industrial unrest."

The Screen

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Recognized as one of the foremost actors of Europe, a director of the famous Moscow Art Theatre and the producer of several Broadway stage successes, Leo Bulgakov has transferred his talents to the motion picture screen. His first production as a screen director, "White Lies," is now being shown at the Columbia Theatre. Walter Connolly, Fay Wray and Victor Jory are featured in the picture.

"White Lies" is a vivid, dramatic story of conflict with a newspaper background. It was written by Harold Shumate. In the cast, besides the featured players, are Leslie Fenton, William Demarest, Robert Allen, Irene Hervey, Oscar Apfel and Katharine Clare Ward.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Music, once only incidental to the making of motion pictures, has now become one of its most important phases.

Most recent of the Paramount pictures to use music on a lavish scale is the new Marlene Dietrich starring film, "The Devil Is a Woman," which is showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

A dramatic tale of love and jealousy, set in Spain at the end of the last century, the picture employs the score of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnole" throughout to set and maintain the emotional tone of the picture.

DOMINION THEATRE

Warner Bros.' latest musical comedy, "Broadway Gondolier," which reunites the popular stars of "Gold Diggers of 1933," Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, is at the Dominion Theatre.

There is an all-star cast which also includes Adolphe Menjou and Louise Fazenda.

The story, which is new, concerns a New York taxi driver, played by Dick Powell, who aspires to be a singer and takes lessons from a down-and-out Italian teacher. The taxi driver gets an audition at a radio station, but through a series of humorous mix-ups, fails to arrive. The professor sings for him, but his one-time fine voice is gone and Dick loses his chance.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Somewhere back in the colorful past that goes to make a real story teller, Irvin S. Cobb was once a steamboat pilot, on the Ohio River. Supporting Will Rogers in "Steamboat Round the Bend," now at the Capitol Theatre, Cobb gets a chance to reenact his old true-life role.

Of course, the river in the picture is the Mississippi in the 1880's, and Cobb is now a steamboat captain, but he has opportunities to show what he really knows about navigation in the thrilling boat race that marks the climax of the picture.

"Steamboat Round the Bend" is the dramatic story of a man who saves a boy and girl from ruin by his wisdom and self sacrifice, but the story derives much of its humor from the rivalry between Rogers and Cobb as steamboat captains.

Anne Shirley, Stepin Fetchit, Eugene Pallette and Berton Churchill are featured in the supporting cast of the picture, which was directed by John Ford.

SAANICH FAIR IS OPEN TO-DAY

Wide Interest Displayed in Sixty-seventh Annual Exhibition at Saanichton; Fair Officially Opened By N. W. Whittaker, M.P.P.; Keenest Competition Shown With Finest Quality of Produce and Livestock on Display

Special to The Times

Saanichton, Sept. 18. — With visitors from Victoria, from upland and all residents of the Saanich Peninsula thronging the Agricultural Hall and grounds, the sixty-seventh annual fair of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society is the centre of interest at Saanichton to-day.

Judging of the exhibits took place yesterday and the fair is being officially opened this afternoon by Norman W. Whittaker, M.P.P. The exhibits are of fine quality and the entry list is much larger than in previous years.

When judging commenced yesterday, the Agricultural Hall presented a spectacular picture—nearly all the available space being taken up for entries and special displays.

The flower section occupied a place in the centre of the hall. J. D. Hallum of Marine Drive, Sidney, has an attractive display of fuchsias, also Mr. Wardie of Bays Bay Road and Mr. Arrowmyn of Bays Bay have gorgeous displays of gladioli. The numerous trophies to be competed for in different sections at the fair where on display in the showcase.

The vegetable and field roots for stock sections are particularly striking.

TOLMIE CUP

W. G. Burch was awarded the Dr. S. P. Tolmie Challenge Cup for best collection of vegetables, while George Little was awarded second honors. The potato and fruit sections also presented an exceptionally large entry list of high quality.

P. Holloway was declared the winner of a handsome engraved silver tray donated by Canadian Bank of Commerce for the best display of Saanich-grown fruit.

EGG SECTION

W. Hagger, Dominion egg inspector, paid tribute to the remarkably high standard of the egg section, competition proving very keen, one-quarter of a point only making the difference in competitors' entries.

The needlework section has a fine entry list, fine hand-made patch work quilts are entered. Len Collins' pieces of needlework deserve special mention.

Mrs. J. D. Gordon, judge of the bottled fruits, jams and jelly section, said the entries were by far the best she had judged at any fair this year. Mrs. Darcus was awarded first and second special prizes for the best bottle of fruit in the show, with apricots and peaches, while Mrs. MacQueen's bottle of cherries was awarded the third special. The two entries awarded first and second prizes in the canned vegetables were considered almost perfect by Mrs. Gordon.

INDIAN DISPLAY

The Indians of Saanich reserves had a particularly good display this year. Miss Morry and Father Schenier were in charge of this section and some fine fruit, baking, needlework and Indian sweaters were shown, while the hand-carved Indians in war canoes and the eagle and thunder bird, the work of Tommy Paul, West Saanich, were unique.

Of special interest was a hand-made linen bag made by a blind Indian. A glowing tribute to the ladies of Saanich, there being many tempting pies and cakes on display.

Hafer Brothers had an interesting display of electric pumps, gasoline engines and samples of auto parts and accessories kept in stock at their machine shop on East Saanich Road. Some samples of their workmanship were also on display. The Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology have an interesting display of plant diseases and their controls, a conspicuous feature being the luminous-colored photographs of sections of farms.

Photography includes a lone exhibit of pictures by the Pictorial Photographers of Victoria. Mrs. De Rouse, 2738 Higgins Street, has an exhibit of shells and fancy stones made into cunning little novelties, bridge lamps, candlestick holders, etc.

The Saanich nurses have an interesting display which is most unusual in the form of a gas station, a large bottle of milk representing a health filling station. The school section this year is of high merit. Particularly fine are the exhibits of posters. A salt and flour model of dogwood, the work of a twelve-year-old girl, Tannis Martin of Strawberry Vale, was praised by the judges.

SAD SIGHT AFTER FLORIDA HURRICANE

The smoke and flames of rude funeral pyres at Snake Creek, Fla., wrote an end to the stories of U.S. war veterans who were killed when their camps on the Florida keys were demolished by hurricane winds and waters. While a Protestant clergyman, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi intoned their respective rituals for the dead, relief workers tossed a blazing torch on to the oil-soaked pine boxes that had been piled together for the mass cremation of 250 storm victims.

Filipinos Elect Quezon As Chief

Elaborate Inauguration For First President of New Commonwealth

Associated Press
Manila, P.I., Sept. 18.—An elaborate inauguration with all the trimmings of a similar United States celebration was planned to-day for Manuel Quezon, overwhelmingly elected as first President of the new Philippine Commonwealth.

The ceremonies November 15 will signalize the birth of a new nation to the Filipinos, and they plan to dramatize the event. High dignitaries and journalists of the United States were already packing their bags to-day for the long sea trip here as late election returns made Quezon's election certain as well as that of his vice-presidential running mate and most of his supporters.

Sergio Osmeña was elected Vice-President, and victory of Manuel Roxas, Quintin Paredes and Camilo Osias assured the new President ample leadership in the unicameral National Assembly, where he will also have a clear voting majority.

Quezon's own opponents in the presidential race, Emilio Aguinaldo and Bishop Gregorio Aglipay, were hopelessly outdistanced from the first. Both were opposed to the Commonwealth plan of government authorized by the Tydings-McDuffie Act.

Incomplete and official returns to-day from Tuesday's election gave Quezon 501,233 votes, more than double the combined total of Emilio Aguinaldo, who led the insurrection of 1900 against the United States, and Bishop Gregorio Aglipay. Aguinaldo polled 160,873 and Aglipay 70,887.

Defend Record Of Tory Party

D. B. Plunkett, G. A. Cameron and J. W. Jones Address Conservative Meeting

The record of the Bennett government during the last five years was defended by Conservatives who addressed a meeting yesterday evening of the Oak Bay Conservative Association in St. Mary's Hall in support of D. B. Plunkett, seeking re-election for the Victoria seat.

The Prime Minister's actions during his term of office were described as those of a determined man meeting difficult conditions to save Canada.

All speakers were confident of a Conservative return in the Dominion, stating there had been a definite swing back to Bennett during the last two months since the policies of R. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and J. B. Woodsworth had been expounded.

W. H. M. Haldane was the chairman and the speakers were Mr. Plunkett, Gordon A. Cameron, former president of the Oak Bay Liberal Association, and J. W. Jones, former Minister of Finance in the Tolmie government.

"This is a peculiar election. There has never been so many candidates and so many theories, asking your suffrage," Mr. Plunkett said.

"The Conservative government has served you faithfully through times that would break any other government."

While he was in the government Mr. King had "said nothing and done nothing," Mr. Plunkett said.

NO SPECIFIC POLICIES

The C.C.F. party to-day was making statements continually but was not telling the people what it would do in a specific way.

"Mr. Bennett has saved this Dominion and despite everything to the contrary he has made us a mark of envy," he said. "The system has proven right under the guidance of Mr. Bennett. He has saved $16,000,000 in refunding loans. Look over the financial record of the Dominion Government, you can find nothing anywhere to beat it. Instead of condemnation it should be commendation," he said.

In reply to criticisms that the west was hard treated, Mr. Plunkett said that Ontario and Quebec, with 66 per cent of the Dominion population, and received only 40 per cent of federal subsidies while the three western provinces, with 22 per cent of the population, received 40.7 per cent of federal funds. Ontario and Quebec contributed 83.1 per cent of federal income tax and the west contributed 6.7 per cent.

"It's a nice place Ottawa is," Mr. Plunkett said, "during the winter you can always find someone from out west down here borrowing and if you don't find him at the finance minister's door, you find him at the Chateau Laurier."

PROMOTING WAR SCARE

Mr. Plunkett charged the Liberal leader with the development of the war scare for political gain. There had been no need for any comment from Mr. King on this situation, he said.

Mr. Plunkett charged it had been made as a political move.

In reply to a question at his last meeting on the $60,000,000 loan to the C.P.R. Mr. Plunkett explained some persons thought the loan was direct from government. It was made by the banks with government guarantee as security. The C.P.R. had given its assurance of repayment and already $15,000,000 had been paid back, he said.

"We must never forget what the C.P.R. has done for Canada from coast to coast and I am not ashamed of the answer to this question," Mr. Plunkett said.

He pointed out what a serious effect it would have had on Victoria if the C.P.R. had closed its interests here.

In closing, he urged his audience to hear Mr. Bennett next Saturday, also to hear Mr. King, then compare the result of this scrutiny would mean victory for the Conservatives.

W. H. M. HALDANE

"The federal election this year has a greater importance and significance than any other since the days of Confederation," Mr. Haldane said in his opening remarks. "The issues were not those possessing emotional appeal but required close, business like common sense analysis and study, he said.

"The Conservative party and its great leader invite just that kind of scrutiny of its record and policies. Scrutinize its knowledge of a job well done and in its faith in the Canadian people, it may well be confident of its return to power," he said.

GORDON CAMERON

"In my opinion the greatest asset Canada has is the present Prime Minister, R. B. Bennett," Mr. Cameron said. Mr. Bennett was a sound and determined man and a capable leader which was a requirement of any government. Mr. Cameron reviewed the Prime Minister's rise in life from a poor beginning to his present position.

He pointed to the truth of Sir James Lougheed's prophecy of twenty-five years ago when he said Canada would turn to Mr. Bennett in a time of need for assistance.

One of Mr. Bennett's greatest qualities was his love for his mother, Mr. Cameron said. Mr. Bennett not having missed one Christmas with her since the time he came west to Calgary. The speaker thought a man might be well judged by his affection for his mother.

ENORMOUS GENEROSITY

"His generosity has been enormous and his private secretary has had difficulty in restraining him from donating to every request made of him."

Mr. Bennett was a man of direct action and based publicity, the latter having been a falling as far as the Conservatives were concerned. The Prime Minister does the work of three men and it was no wonder he suffered a breakdown.

Mr. Bennett was the most experienced of the three party leaders, Mr. Cameron said. Mr. King's knowledge was theoretical and not practical while Mr. Woodsworth only knew from experience what he had picked up in the last season.

Dealing with the leader's record he pointed to the Ottawa agreement, re-establishment of loans from the United Kingdom, the regaining of Canadian trade, his sympathetic hearings to provinces and his increasing of veterans' pensions by $200,000 as outstanding among his accomplishments.

Referring to Premier Mitchell Hepburn's statement that depressions were the result of bad government, Mr. Cameron said depressions certainly in Canada in 1930, which, according to Mr. Hepburn's own words, was the result of the Liberal administration up to that time.

KEEPS PROMISES

"I say that when Mr. Bennett makes a pledge he carries that pledge out as far as the constitution of the country will permit," he said.

Dealing with the platform of the Conservative party, Mr. Cameron said it offered, reduction of Dominion and provincial debts, establishment of technical schools, extension of Canadian trade with Japan, assistance to the unemployed maintenance of credit, and control of Communism.

Under Mr. Bennett there had been progress in the last five years and if he was put back Canada certainly could not be worse off and he was sure progress would continue.

"I think Mr. Bennett is going back and it is our duty to see that Mr. Plunkett goes back to support him," he concluded.

"I notice Mr. Cameron made little reference to Harry Stevens, who is leading the forlorn hope—the Reconstructionists—or Mr. Woodsworth," Mr. Jones said at the outset.

After attending the Liberal rally and hearing some of those "stale jokes" Mr. Jones said he did not know just what the Liberals intended to do. In the last two months, Mr. Jones agreed there had been a swing of public opinion to Mr. Bennett.

"We need stability and more thought in these public matters," Mr. Jones said. He condemned "loose thinking" which he said was prevalent and which he represented as being the cry for a change.

The speaker referred to the economic crisis which faced the Prime Minister in 1930, with demands for money increasing and revenues falling. Mr. King said Mr. Bennett was to blame for this condition.

When the Bennett government took office it found contractual commitments totalling $234,000,000 left by the Liberals and had to refund $100,000,000.

"It was not an easy task in 1930. We had an adverse trade balance of $103,000,000 and I heard Mr. Hepburn say the Liberals had increased trade," Mr. Jones said, adding the Conservatives had finished office with a favorable balance of $163,000,000.

Trade walls barring exports, introduced by Liberals, also formed a problem for Mr. Bennett, and he had overcome these by securing Imperial preference from Great Britain and the British Commonwealth.

Steady trade increases had resulted from this treaty. In 1932 Canada stood eleventh in the matter of exporting to Great Britain and now she stood second, as a result of the Prime Minister's negotiations.

As an instance of the magnanimous attitude of the Prime Minister to provinces, Mr. Jones stated he had loaned nearly $15,000,000 to the Liberal government in B.C. since it took office.

Mr. Jones also mentioned accomplishments of Mr. Bennett, including the fixing of bank interest rates at 7 per cent, the saving of $16,000,000 interest payments by conversion loans, the loaning of $240,000,000 to provinces, the loaning of $800,000,000 to farmers' installment and unemployment insurance.

LONDON, THE THAMES AND SOME LANDMARKS

hams. London is said to be ever increasing its demand for fruit from overseas. Domestically, over 700,000 tons of fruits and vegetables were imported into London in 1934.

There are granaries at Millwall and the Royal Victoria Docks, with storage accommodation for some 64,000 tons. Paper and pulp are stored at the West India Dock, not far from the great London publishing houses. There are facilities for handling tobacco and during the last few years the importation of Canadian grown tobacco has increased fourfold and the present stock is 7

In the Dundas forests, a company of "Tommys" led by Captain Condy lay ready to follow their comrades over the top against the Gurkhas, when down tined the Indian mountains. Across the valley they could see the campfires of the natives.

Finally, weird sounds were borne across to them by the night breeze. Pat's father, sleepless, thought of the strange rites going on among the enemy as they raised their courage by incantations to their gods. He wondered what might be happening to Pat, his daughter.

For over an hour, the motor-car bearing the three fugitives raced down the road. They were now well out of the maharajah's immediate territory and Roger's apprehensions were a bit relieved. Once they were forced to slow down by a rocky bank.

Suddenly a light ahead brought them to a stop. Roger, pistol cocked, investigating, had gone but a few yards when a startled scream brought him racing back. As though the night had swallowed her up, Patricia Condy Gloomy Guess Have No Place In This World. Says It Is Our Duty To Strive For Happiness.

WE TALK a lot about our right to happiness. We seldom consider our duty to be happy. Yet if one is a privilege, the other is a sacred obligation.

Personally, it has always seemed to me that people who have even a moderate share of the good things of life are not only poor sports but also black ingrates when they go about beating upon their breasts and bemoaning the world with their tears. Often they have to much to rejoice over. Good health. Pleasant family relationships. A comfortable living. Yet because they have not reached some impossible standard of bliss in which there will not be a single crumpled rose leaf under their forty mattresses of ease, they are Gloomy Guesses and Gustiners.

One of the most melancholy women that I know has never had a single real sorrow or hardship in her life. Fate has spared her the grief of ever losing any one she really loved by death. While not rich, she has always lived in modest luxury and never had to worry about where the next meal was coming from. She has had a kind and devoted husband who has never looked at another woman. Her children have not only turned out to be all that any mother's heart could wish, but also are singularly tender and considerate of "poor Mamma," who is always so sad.

Now wouldn't you think a woman circumstanced like that would be cracking her heels together for joy and singing a merry melody at the top of her voice? Wouldn't you think she would be patting herself on the back at being Lady Luck's favorite daughter? Wouldn't you think that she would feel that it was her duty to show her gratitude to God for all the good things He had given her by at least looking as if she enjoyed them and liked them?

Well, if you do, you guess wrong. She goes about with the pathetic resigned expression of a martyr on her way to the stake, and if there is a single ray of sunshine in this gloomy old world, she never even glimpses it. "We can't expect happiness here below," she says with a sigh, and totally ignores the fact that when the Creator of the world filled it with beauty and things for us to enjoy; when He hung the sun and the moon in the skies, and made seas and mountains and blooming flowers and put the song in a bird's throat, He meant us to find happiness. We are quitters and cowards if we don't hunt until we do find it.

I often think that the silver lining to the black cloud of depression under which we have lived for the last few years has been the grand opportunity it gave the wallers to do their stuff. They have had the centre of the stage on which to do their breast-beating and hair-tearing. Their lamentations have made poor old Jeremiah look like a cheer leader. Half of us have rheumatism in our shoulders from having them wept on by people who were caught in breaking banks, or were on the wrong side of Wall Street, or lost their jobs or something.

Of course, not everybody is born a Pollyanna, and those who have suffered from the hard times have a right to lead the chorus of the blues singers, though crying over spilt milk doesn't put it back in the bottle. None of us object to listening to their tales of woe. What we do resent is having to lend an ear to the hard-luck stories of those who moan and groan over their losses, but who are still able to ride around in limousines, keep up town houses and country places, take trips and live just exactly as they have been in the habit of living.

We feel that instead of bewailing their bad luck they should be thanking heaven on their knees for how easily they have got off, and that instead of adding to the prevailing gloom they should try to lighten it by at least contributing a note of personal optimism. One of the reasons the depression has lasted so long is because we have encouraged it by telling each other our troubles. We could have laughed it off long ago if we had remembered our blessings instead of centering our attention on our misfortunes.

We do not think of being happy as a duty, yet it is one that we owe to the general public and especially one that we owe to our families. All of us know how depressing it is to have to listen for an hour or two to the melancholy-croakings of some one who can see no good in anything or anybody, or to have some one come to see us and sob out her sorrows that we are powerless to assuage.

We all know how a letter filled with bad news and whinings and complaints can ruin a day for us. And so it becomes an obligation to us not to commit the crime of disseminating melancholy and adding our troubles to the troubles of others.

And especially is it every woman's duty to be happy for the sake of her husband and children. A happy home always has a cheerful woman at the head of it. Husbands and children never wander away from the home where there is laughter and good cheer.

So let's show that we appreciate the good things we have by being happy over them. It is our duty to be happy. DOROTHY DIX. Copyright, 1935

UNCLE WIGGLY MENDS THE HOSE

By HOWARD E. GARIS

One hot afternoon, after he had cut his hedge, Uncle Wiggly sat in front of his house, mending his hose. He was a very old man, and his hose were very old and worn. He was mending them with a needle and thread. He was a very old man, and his hose were very old and worn. He was mending them with a needle and thread.

CANADIAN IN CHINA FREED

Associated Press

Nanking, Sept. 18. - The Chinese Foreign Office yesterday announced that it had instructed Kansu provincial authorities to release a Canadian and a man from the United States detained there.

The two, H. Desmond Martin, twenty-four, Montreal, and John de France, twenty-four, of New Haven, Conn., were provided with an armed escort to go to Lanchow, where they were en route early this month when taken into custody.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1935

"The stars incline, but do not compel." According to astrology this is an uncertain day in planetary direction, but a benefic aspect appears to dominate. There will be a tendency to wait for something to happen instead of starting activities one's self.

There is a sign supposed to confuse minds that are usually keen. Indeed, such new paths in which to promote new industries.

While this configuration prevails heads of government affairs in this country may expect severe and even unfair criticism. This is a direction of the stars under which much that is good is apparent to all who are affected by them.

Redistribution of British fighting forces and closer co-operation of the Mother Country with her colonies is prognosticated. Canada will go through extraordinary changes, and will welcome many settlers from the United States, it is prophesied.

Reactionary planetary influences will affect not only public but private affairs. Women are to benefit through concentrating their interest on domestic activities.

Charm will be cultivated by girls, who are to learn to control temper from old-fashioned traditions is not conducive to lasting happiness. Natural beauty will be sought as cosmetics are discarded.

College students of both sexes now should benefit in the direction of the stars inclining toward serious study. They will realize that the safest resources are those stored in the mind.

Explorations of the occult world again are prognosticated. Strange discoveries will be reported, but the users were against perils associated with psychic experiments.

Persons whose birthdate it is to have the anxiety of a year of changes and readjustments. Propensity is indicated for both men and women.

Children born on this day probably will be mentally alert and extremely independent. They usually are loyal to friends or to principles that they accept.

Key Pittman, United States senator, was born on this day, 1873. Others who were celebrated as a birthday include William Robertson, Scottish antiquary, 1773, and William R. Astor, son of John Jacob I, 1792.

NORAH ENDS COAST RUNS

Completes Summer Cruise Series and Will Go on Alaska Service

Not until next summer will residents of the west coast of Vancouver Island see the Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Norah again, she reached Victoria this afternoon at 1 o'clock, completing her summer cruises for this year. She had a good list of tourist passengers on board and left later in the afternoon to discharge general freight consignments in Vancouver.

The Princess Norah has been on the West Coast service since July 1, and each voyage she has carried capacity lists of tourist passengers, all of whom expressed themselves as delighted with the beauties of the rugged coast. Many of the passengers had been there in former years, and said they hoped to return again in the future.

The St. Princess Maquinn, recently overhauled, and now returned from a freight trip to Skagway, will take over the West Coast route with the sailing on Saturday evening of this week. She will remain on this service throughout the winter months, sailing from Victoria on the first, eleventh and twenty-first of each month at 11 o'clock in the evening.

The Princess Norah will be cleaned up and renovated along the Belleville street dock before going on the Alaska service for the winter months, sailing from Vancouver on October 19, relieving the Princess Louise, which will then come to Victoria to tie up until next spring.

Claim Federation Extends To Island

Longshoremen State Before Mr. Justice Davis in Vancouver They Are Only Doing Likewise in Extending Their Organization to Vancouver Island

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—Spokesmen for striking longshoremen endeavored to show that the Shipping Federation of British Columbia is not confined in its influence to the Port of Vancouver, when they appeared yesterday before Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the Supreme Court of Canada, appointed by the Canadian Government to investigate Vancouver waterfront troubles.

The longshoremen stated the Federation control extended over parts of the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

Spokesmen for the Federation, including K. A. McLennan, denied that this was so.

Longshoremen contended that in broadening their organization to embrace other ports they were paralleling the action of the Federation.

The Moose Hall, where the inquiry is being held, was so crowded and the atmosphere so stifling that Mr. Justice Davis several times asked some of those in the hall to leave, stating the capacity of the place was taxed beyond the point of fire safety and health.

The crowd remained and he intimated they might have to limit those admitted to-day. The hall will accommodate 150 persons and double that number were present. The commissioner said he wanted to assure a public hearing, but not a mass meeting.

"RED BOGEY"
Ivan Emery, president of the Vancouver and District Waterfront Workers' Association, said that some of his organization had been connected by propaganda with the "Red Bogy." He said he was one who in 1923 had been "foiled by similar propaganda" and had gone to work in spite of the strike of that time.

He said he had tried to prove that relations between men and employers could be maintained by conferences but this had proved impossible.

The agreement of last November had not tried to settle the underlying problems of the waterfront, Emery said.

On the subject of the longshoremen's questions about the scope of the Shipping Federation's influence, the commissioner agreed that he, too, would like to know if the thirty members listed in the Federation statement really controlled the Canadian coast of the P-coast. He asked for a return showing per centage of export handled in the different ports.

IN VANCOUVER
Wallace Courtney, local representative of the Canadian Airways is in Vancouver to-day conferring with officials of the company regarding the winter plane service between Esquimalt harbor and Vancouver.

Down the Gangway

Although she carried only seventy-three passengers, there were nine nationalities aboard the Japanese motorship Hikawa Maru when she reached Vancouver early yesterday morning from the Orient. Most of the travelers were Japanese, of course, but there were also Canadians, United States citizens, British, Danish, German, French, Russian and Chinese—quite a cosmopolitan list, in fact. The Chinese was quite alone, there being no other of his nationality.

The passenger list of the Hikawa Maru also looked something like the registry of a university faculty. There were a number of college professors and quite a large group of students, some returning from summer tours of the Orient and other coming to this side of the Pacific for periods of study. Professor J. F. Steiner of the University of Washington faculty arrived on the Hikawa Maru with his wife and family, returning after spending the summer in Japan. Jiro Harada, a professor at the Imperial Museum in Tokyo was also a passenger, en route to the University of Oregon where he will lecture for a year.

Japanese business men aboard the Hikawa Maru were Teizo Kondo of the New York branch of the Mitsui Bank and Masakazu Saito of the Asahi Silk Corporation, going to New York on business for his firm.

Others aboard the liner were J. A. Conkling Jr., of the United States consulate at Shanghai; T. H. Lu of Shanghai; Louis Darlier, French student at the University of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Kaj Hellanger, en route to Denmark; Percy W. Piper and E. H. Klipp of Vancouver; M. F. Smolinski, Russian; Major C. G. O'Leary, British army officer; and Alfred Schneider on his way to his home in Germany.

Traveling half way around the world to take up his new duties, J. W. Lang of Glasgow is now in the Pacific Northwest on his way to Hongkong. He was in Seattle yesterday and will come here at the end of the week to sail for the Orient by the liner Empress of Russia. Mr. Lang will take up the position of traveling passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific at Hongkong after being cruise representative for Pacific liners in the company's office in Glasgow. He figures he is traveling about 10,532 miles to take up his new job.

One of the largest single groups of missionaries over to pass through Victoria, bound for the Orient, will be aboard the Empress of Russia, when she sails Saturday. There will be thirty members of Catholic missionary orders in the party, going to various parts of Japan and China. Four Dominican sisters from Paris, including the Prior-general, will be among the passengers.

Bargain Rates On U.S. Lines

The transcontinental railways of the United States have announced special bargain excursions from points in British Columbia to various points in eastern Canada, according to information received in Victoria this morning by H. E. Douglas, local representative of the Great Northern Railway Company.

These special tickets, good on all transcontinental lines, will be honored from September 21 to October 4, with the return portion good forty-five days from the date of purchase. The tickets are now on sale and all information will be provided by the local representatives of the various railway companies involved in the new scheme. It is the first time the United States roads have run these excursions. Such trips have been popular for several years now over the lines of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National.

Many To Visit Island Points

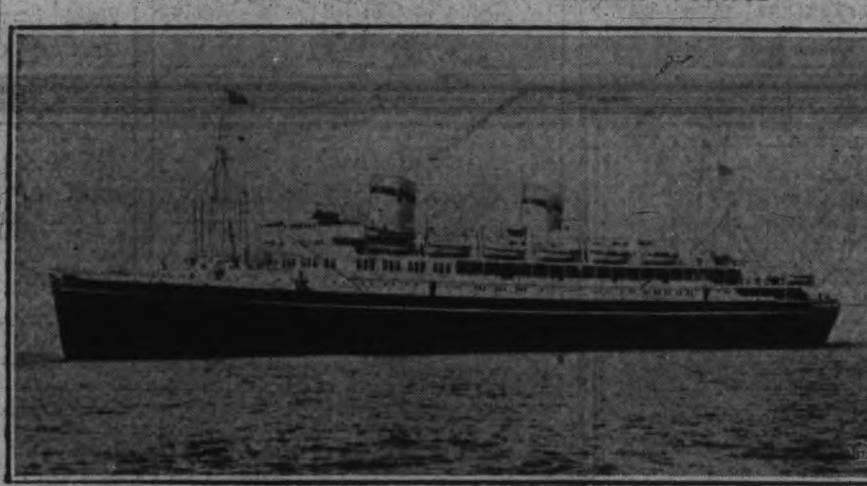

Much interest has been created in the bargain excursions over Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway lines, to up-land points this week-end and already a large number of Victorians have visited the Government Street offices of the Canadian Pacific to purchase their tickets. It will probably be the last opportunity of visiting Vancouver Island centres by train at these rates this season.

The tickets are now on sale and will be good going on either Friday or Saturday of this week, with the return limit good up to next Tuesday. The train will call at most-populated island points, including Shawnigan Lake, Duncan, Chemainus, Ladysmith, Alberni, Qualicum, Parksville and Nanaimo.

Destroyer Firing To-day in Straits

H.M.C.S. Skeena has returned to home waters after a good-visit to Portland. She rounded Race Rocks early this morning and anchored off the William Head quarantine station. This afternoon the Skeena will engage in manoeuvres in firing practice in the straits and is expected to reach her base in Esquimalt harbor this evening.

NEW POLISH LINER NOW ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

First liner built by Poland since her rebirth, is now crossing the Atlantic on her maiden voyage, bound from Gdynia, on the Baltic Sea, to New York. Constructed by Italy and paid for entirely in Polish coal, the Pilsudski is one of the most modern of the smaller Atlantic liners.

BRITISH SHIP CALLS FOR AID

Ss. Mabel Moller of Shanghai Sends SOS Message From Japanese Coast

Seattle, Sept. 18.—The U.S. naval radio station on lonely St. Paul Island, in Bering Sea, to-day reported to coastguard district headquarters here that a British steamship, the Mabel Moller, had dispatched an SOS message from off the Kurile Islands, Japan. There was so much static interference, the St. Paul station reported, that it could not ascertain the nature of the vessel's trouble. The Mabel Moller, apparently, was in communication with a Japanese vessel, and gave her position as latitude 43 north, longitude 143 east. Lloyd's register describes the Mabel Moller as a steamship of 1,540 tons owned by Moller and Co., Shanghai, China.
